marvin -
so a great guy I've known
since I was born.
we've had a lot a
good times together.
See ya this summer,
(I hope). Love,
Diane

To Marvin -
Kid. In fact,
you're a down right
smart alec, but I wouldn't like you any other way.
Love,
Patty Gibbons

Marvin -
Thanks for keeping me company while baby sit. Good luck in Band. See ya
this summer.

Good luck and have fun at A.H.S. you're only here once. So bad we have such a sick duo, right?

Love,
Carol

Marvin -
A really great guy
& I met some years ago good-luck and stay away from Perks and you'll go great. Love,

Below: Relaxing in the late fall sun, AHS students enjoy an Indian Summer day. Upper right: Taking advantage of the last of the warm weather, AHS'ers find time for an exhilarating game of football. Lower right: Fall leaves offer the opportunity to recapture their childhood for Sandy Albea and David Farr.

Indian Summer
 Bright trees
 Crackly leaves
 Warm yellow sun
 Icy blue wind
 Downy clouds
 Red, brown, yellow, blue, green, orange
 A secure world
 Suspended in the brightness of summer
 Waiting for winter.
 Men are part of nature
 And so, are part of her plan.
 Between the summer of childhood
 And the winter of adulthood
 There is a place
 In limbo
 Where I am now
 Grown-up but growing
 All-knowing but learning
 Simple but complex
 This is my place
 This is my

AHS
Is many things,
But mostly what I think of
As "school,"
That is
The academic part of my life
From the crisp days of autumn
To the gentle days of spring
I am involved in "the learning process."
I absorb what I want
And throw the rest out of my mind;
This is my last chance
To gird myself with academic armor,
The last time I will be told
What to learn
And how to learn it —
For after this
It is my choice,
I make my own decisions,
I will no longer have the security of

I live enclosed
 As in a womb
 In my school
 AHS.
 I am safe; I am happy.
 Even though troubles are there,
 They are not major,
 For I have not yet been thrown
 Into a turbulent outside world.
 As a sophomore I was confused —
 A little scared —
 Yet glad to be a part
 Of an institution called "high school."
 Juniors are nice people to be —
 Finding a niche
 Carving a place for myself.
 Seniors appreciate the school heritage —
 Seniors are the ultimate
 The oldest, the wisest
 The most frightened —
 Draft cards, college
 And job applications
 Pieces of paper which call me away
 Away from AHS and

Flexibility
Is the word
Which best describes my life style.
I do what I want
When I want
Unless parental authority objects;
There is nothing to tie me down —
No family
No full-time job —
My responsibility is easily
Shifted onto other shoulders.
That leaves me time
For friendships,
Friends I will see all my life,
Friends I will never see again
But friends, nonetheless
For we share the common bond of

ACADEMICS

Learning is a never-ending process of
Term papers, chemistry labs,
Extra-credit projects, essays,
Pop quizzes, short stories,
Geometry notebooks, special reports,
Daily journals, calisthenics,
First day driver's ed. jitters,
World History projects, PSAT scores,
Speed reading machines, book reports,
SAT scores, achievement tests,
And card catalogues.
Yet, these things are only part
Of a bigger education.
The education of learning how
To give orders and to take orders,
To follow and to lead,
To use our imaginations and
To follow directions.
To get along with people,
And to learn useful skills.
These are the things I must do
To prepare myself to leave
Indian Summer.

Class variety, extra projects feed imagination

For the Language Department, maintaining interest and promoting originality were often accomplished through extra credit, group projects, and class discussions. For extra credit the French classes were encouraged to combine their knowledge and culinary talents into French bread, Napoleons, French cheese, and Petit Fours. The advanced Spanish classes wrote and dramatized their own plays in Spanish.

Miss Bundrick's remedial English class played a large version of "Scrabble" which developed their spelling and vocabulary. Senior composition classes gave five minute speeches describing the ideas from their term papers. The Sophomore Honors classes were on the new "packet" system in which each person worked individually and progressed at his own rate to meet the number of packets required.

Election unit stirs political, civic interest

"More young people should become involved in their government." This was the message that Mr. Elwood Hillis, Republican Congressman from the fifth district, tried to relay to the social studies students gathered in the auditorium two weeks before the election. He and his opponent, Democrat Mrs. Katie Williams, elaborated further on their stands regarding the war in Viet Nam, abortion, amnesty, and marijuana.

Anderson High School invited these two candidates and several local candidates to speak in partial fulfillment of the pre-election unit required by the Indiana Election Law. Class discussions and films helped raise student interest while meeting this law.

Mr. Jack Nicholson traveled with 35 students to Washington, D. C. during spring vacation. They visited Mount Vernon, the Kennedy Center, the foreign embassies, and the White House.

New equipment helps create professional air

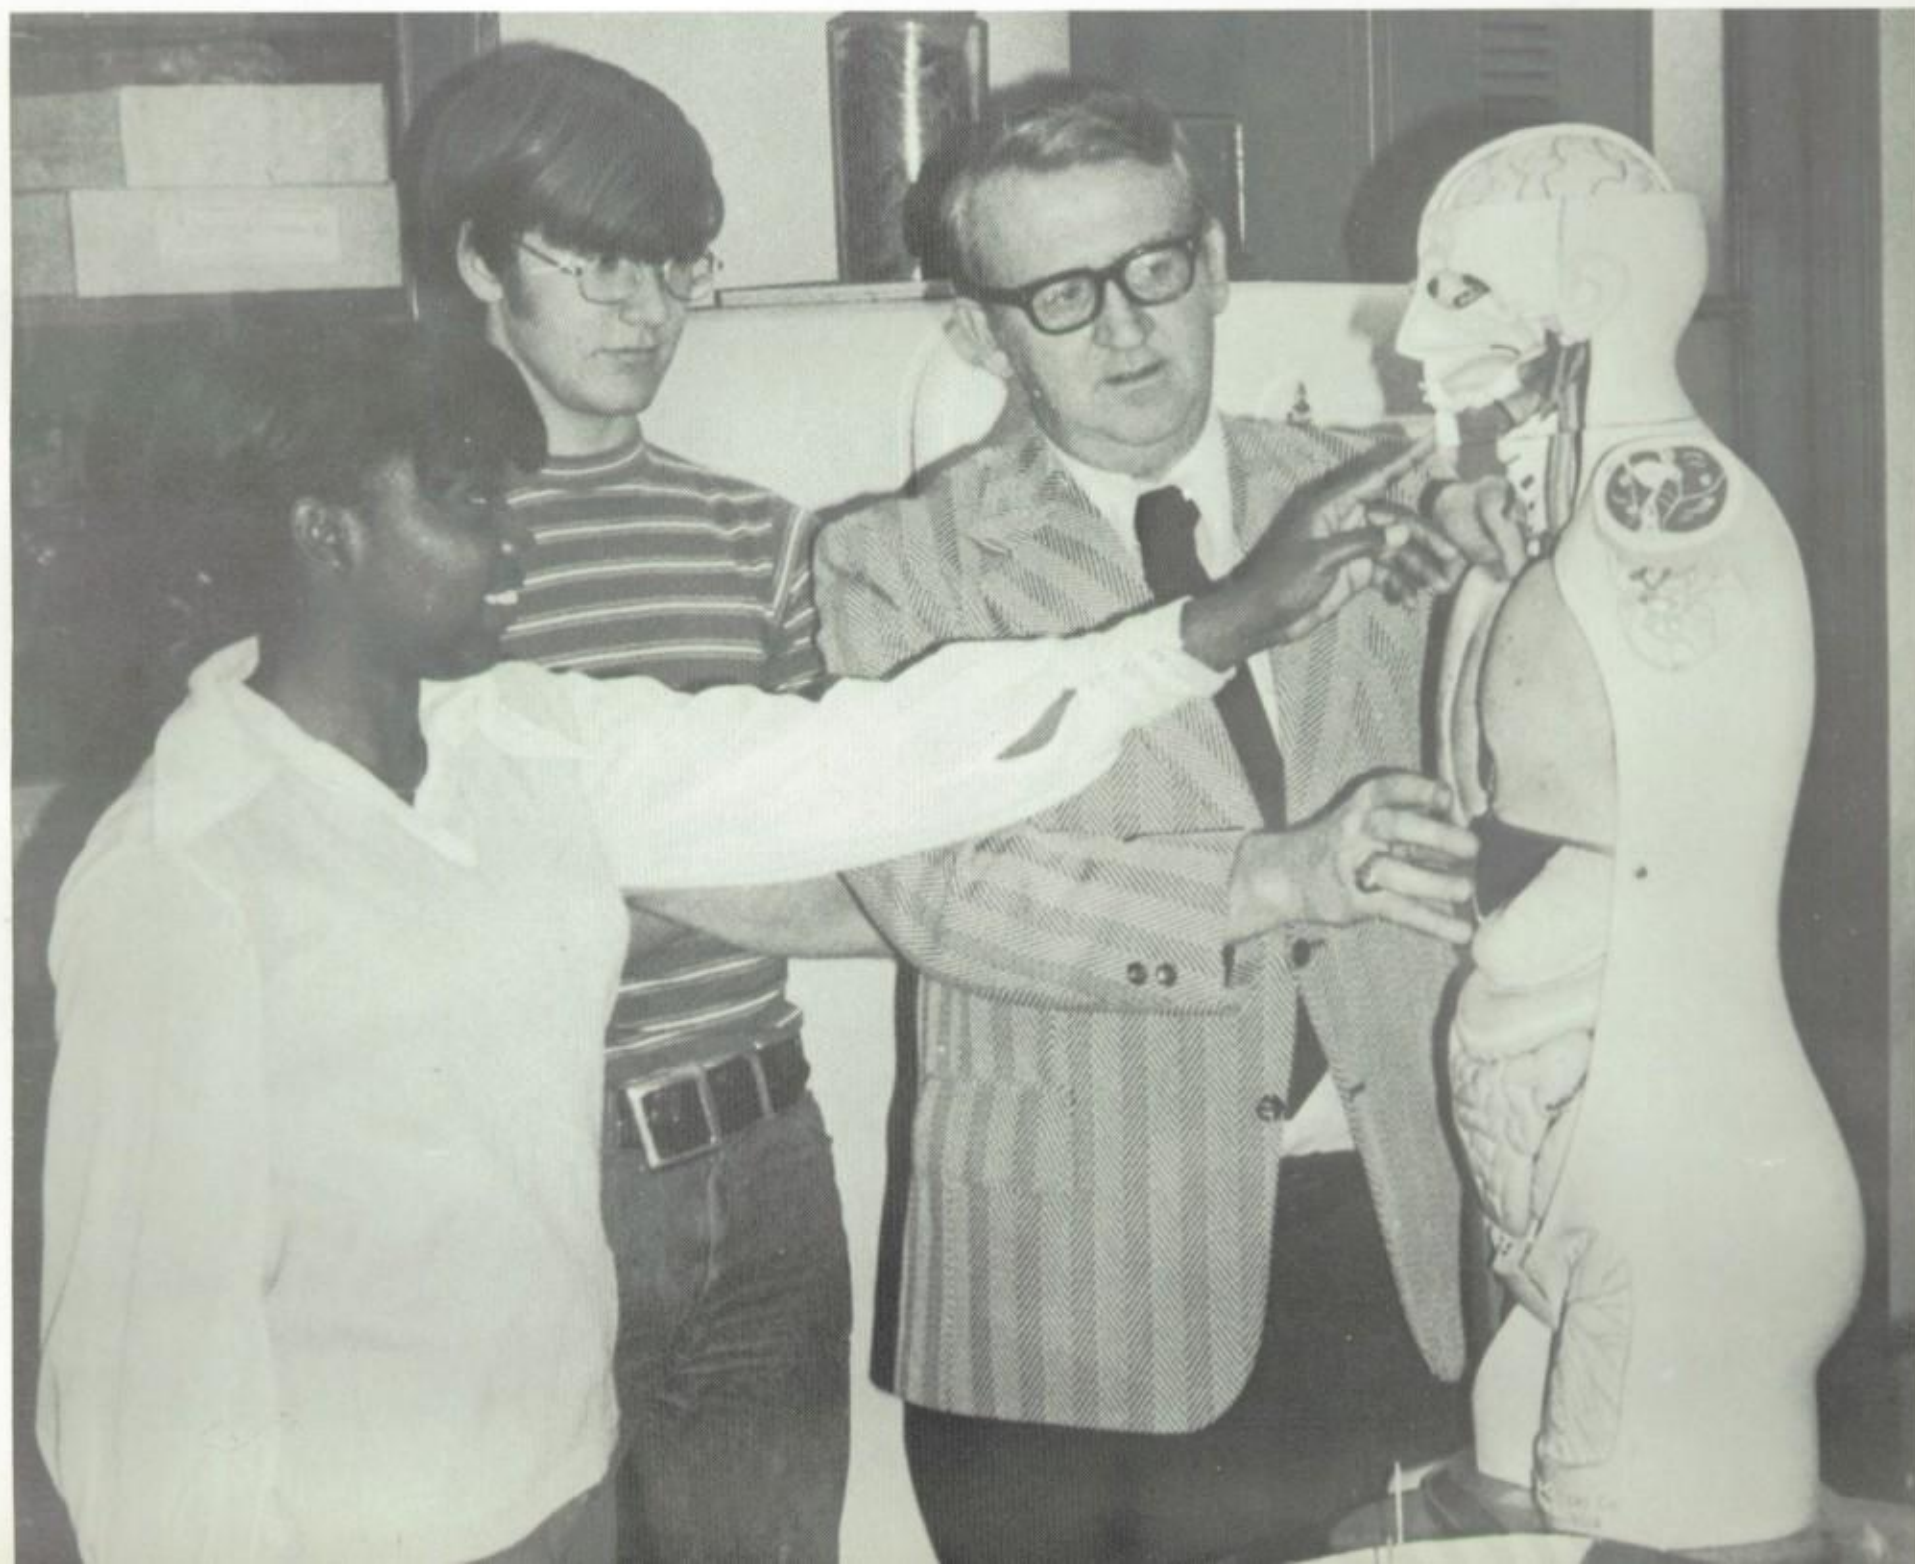

Preparing students for office jobs was one of the main objectives of the business department. Outside speakers came to talk to classes on the different aspects of office life. All of the advanced business classes learned the art of make-up from Donna Richmond of the Don Robert Powers School. Mr. Don LaPierre, a lawyer, talked to the business law classes; he told about his profession and the many fields associated with it.

A business resource center, containing typewriters, calculators and research books, was created in the old student teachers' lounge.

The business department bought new equipment — wireless writing machines, electronic calculators, an accounting machine, and new typing tables — totaling over $6,000 in order to keep up with the ever-progressing business world.

Upper left: The many pamphlets and materials available in the Business Resource Center help Mr. Hilligoss explain the differences in automobile insurance to Nita Fralick. Lower left: Mr. Don LaPierre and Mrs. Plummer collaborate to answer a business law student's question.

Science abandons classrooms for practical field ecology studies

A new class was added to the Science Department — Ecology. This class dealt with the inter-relation between living things and their surroundings, and it reached into the problems between man and his environment.

The Earth Science class went spelunking at Salamandar Cave, seven miles outside of Bloomington. Mr. Rauner's Chemistry classes visited Western Electric at Indianapolis, Anderson College, Delco-Remy Plant 18, and Argonne Laboratories at Chicago to see practical chemistry in action.

Learning new geometry terms was the idea behind the Jeopardy and Password games played in Mr. Porter's class. The three-dimension models, overhead projectors, blackboards, and one's imagination were the tools used to convey the intangible ideas set forth in the seven mathematics courses.

Top left: This three-dimensional model helps Tim McNutt, Rick McMahan, and Susie Erskine imagine algebraic points in space. Top right: Combining a solute and a solvent, advance chemistry student Jean Laughlin prepares an experiment. Left: The parts of the human anatomy which link the stomach to the mouth are traced for Vernice Jackson by Cathy Reese and Mr. Worden. Above: In trigonometry class, Mr. Porter gives the "audience" the word before giving it to the "contestants" playing Password.

AHS orchestra and choruses perform for community groups

A revamped symphonic choir dug into the basic music fundamentals — note values, music symbols, octave and note reading. During Christmas time, the Madrigals performed a medley of carols for 25 different audiences in the Anderson and Indianapolis area.

Orchestra members, representing Anderson High School, played for the Playmaker's play, the Fine Arts Festival, Choral Club's "Choral Classic," and the production of "West Side Story."

Advanced art students worked independently using silk screens, linoleum blocks, sculptures, and paint. Many of the creations made in the art classes — lettering designs, toothpick structures, paintings, and drawings — were found in the display cases in the main hallway for students to see.

IHSAA rule allows girls in male sports

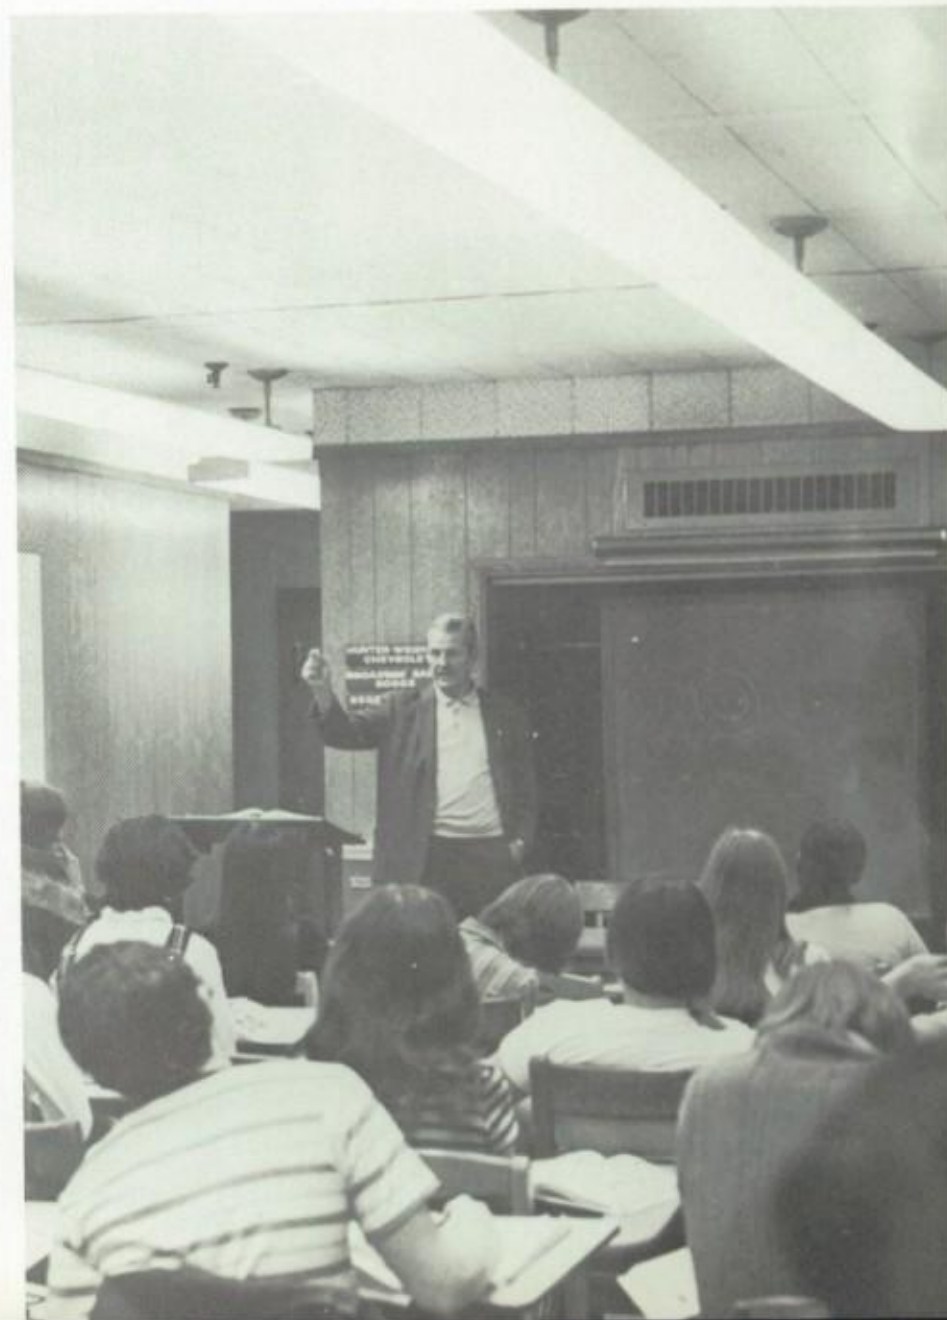

The Indiana High School Athletic Association ruled that starting this year females may participate in extra-curricular non-contact sports formerly open only to males. Girls gained more interest in improving their skills to meet the requirements of the teams.

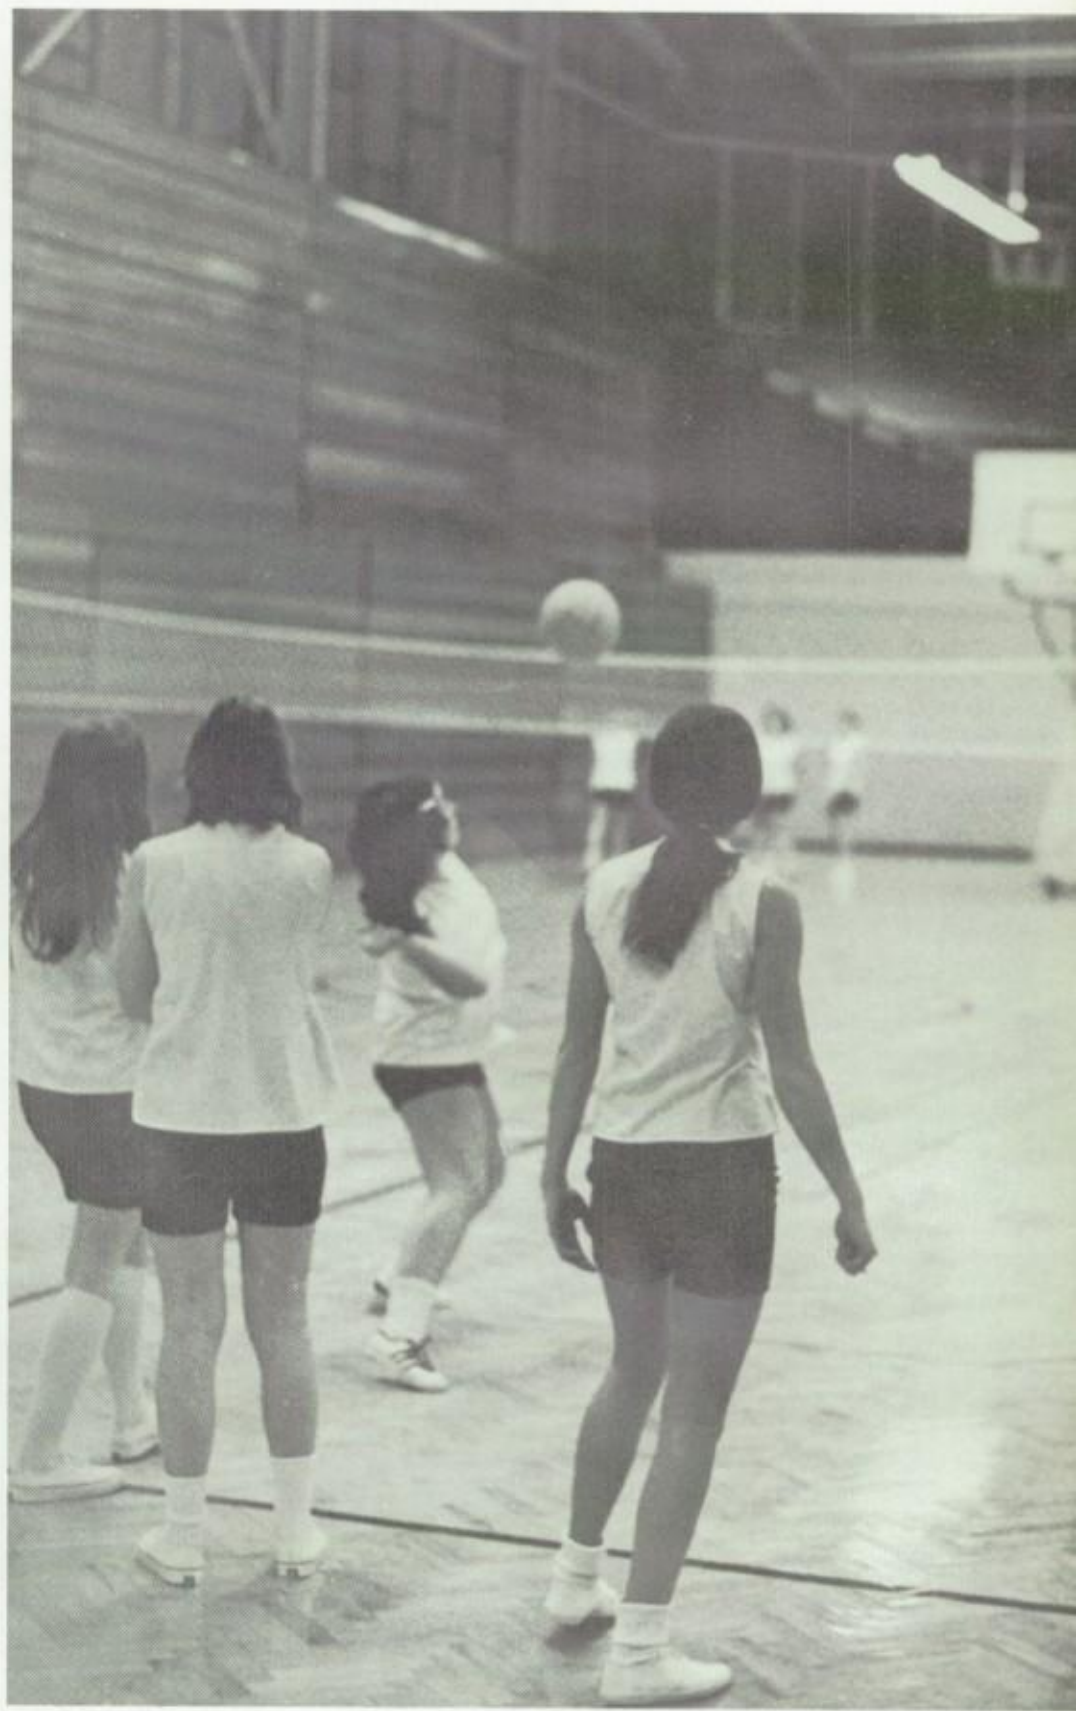

Along with the physical aspects of phys. ed., rules and techniques were also learned with the help of films and student assistants.

One of the objectives of Driver's Education was safety. This was emphasized even more with the help of the new safety devices — safety belt buzzers and energy absorbing bumpers — found on the 1973 cars.

Work program expands; adds variety of jobs

Caring for children in day nurseries, assisting in dry cleaning establishments, cooking in restaurants, working on construction crews, assisting a veterinarian, working as secretaries in offices, helping as nurses' aides and physical therapists in hospitals, learning auto and small engine repair in auto garages, meeting the public as sales persons in stores, and assisting in flower shops were some of the jobs included on this year's work programs.

Home Economics Related Occupations was expanded to include all home economics areas. The need for a separate class in the health area brought about the creation of the Cooperative Health Occupations course.

Five females join industrial ed.

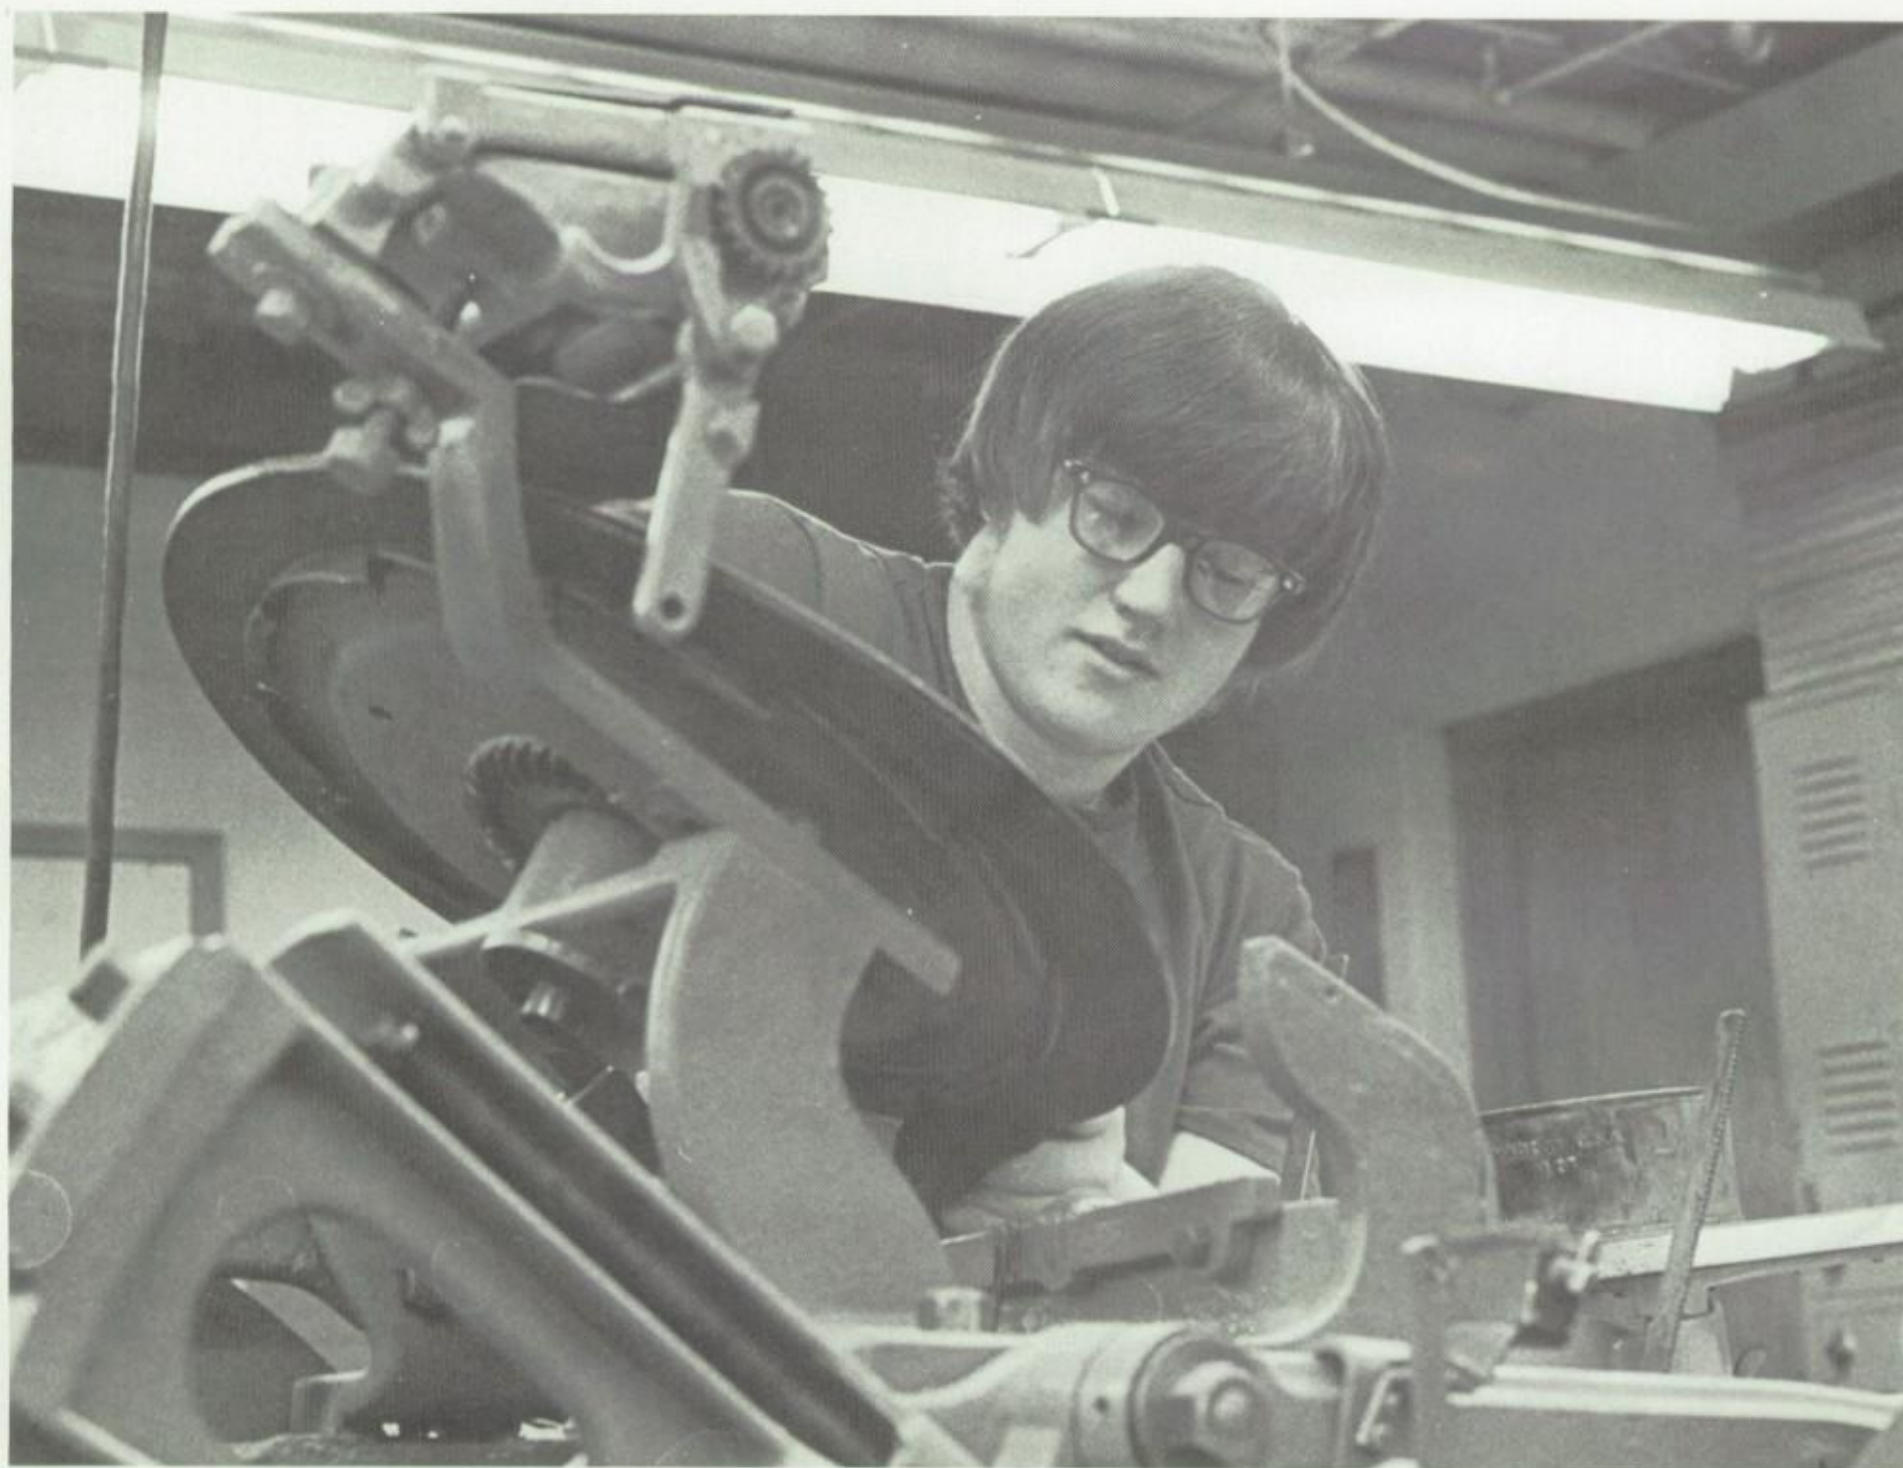

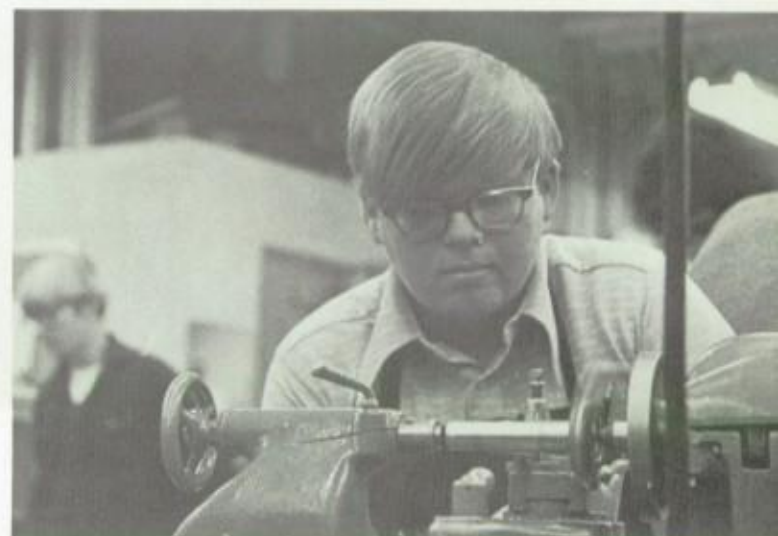

This year there were five girls among the 250 students in the industrial education courses. They were required to accomplish the same projects, but according to Dept. Head Mr. Reilly, "They were more efficient and neater in their work." He went on to add that this was good because it challenged the male students to do better.

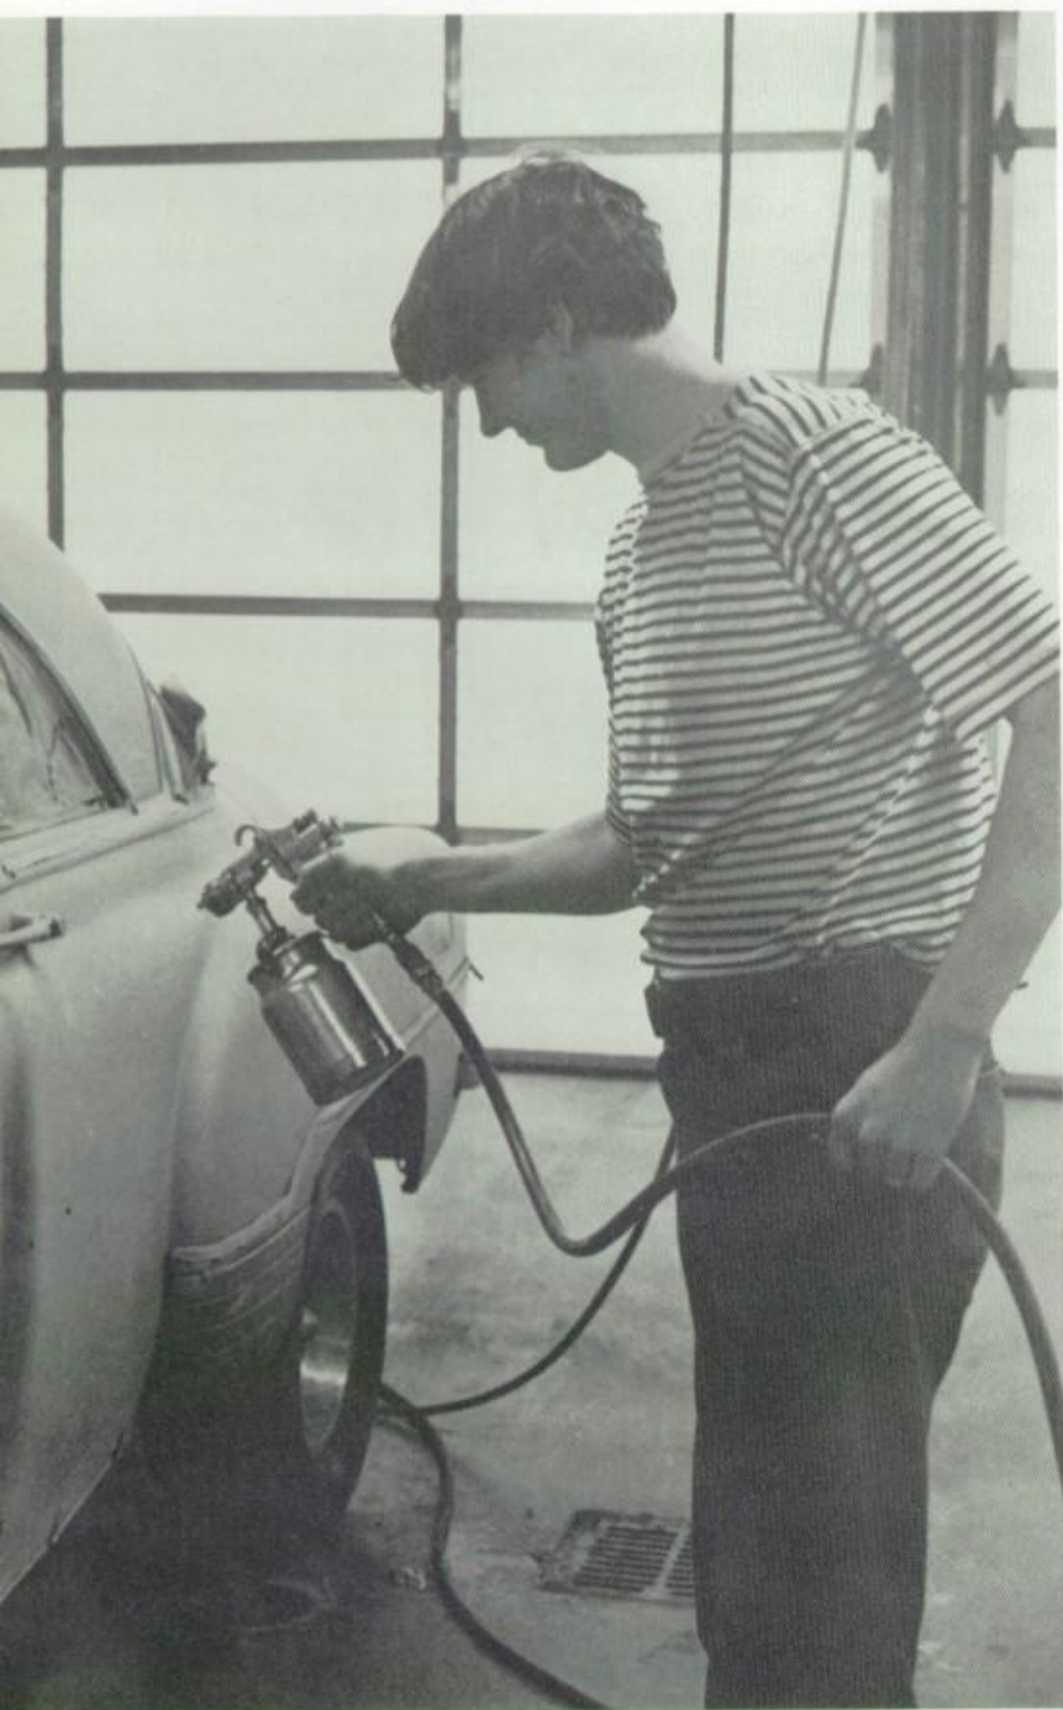

The wise selection of goods, sound child care procedures, and the importance of good interpersonal relationships in the home were important parts of the home economics curriculum. This year's curriculum was modified in order to work along with the home economics work program.

Students gain salable skills

Eight hundred students per hour from Madison, Hancock, and parts of other counties, worked and learned at the Area Vocational-Technical School. Each student spent a half day at his regular high school in academic classes, and a half day at the Vocational-Technical School. These students developed desirable job attitudes as well as skills.

Carpenters from the Building Trades class and electricians from the Electricity and Electronics class combined their efforts to build a house.

Electricity & Electronics, and Heating, Air-Conditioning, & Refrigeration were two classes added to the curriculum. Greater student demand called for an expansion in the Graphic Arts course.

Seniors garner 1st place with 'Hang 'Em High'

Floats, a parade, and the coronation of the Homecoming Queen were the major activities of this year's October homecoming where the Tribe played the Kokomo Wildcats.

Students were free to use their imaginations as no central theme was set for the homecoming parade. The winners of prizes were Senior Class, first place; Homeroom 207, second place; and Homeroom 709, third place.

After the game, 400 students went to a dance in the gym balcony sponsored by the Senior Class.

Students present varied convos, 20 pep sessions

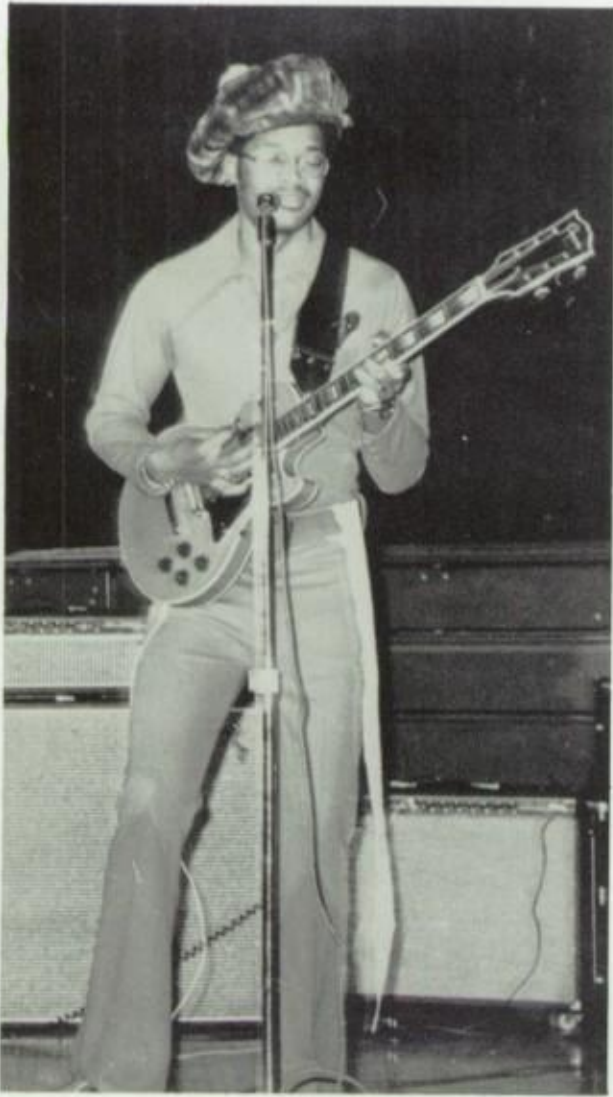

Education extended beyond the classroom as Band, Choral Club, and dramatics students entertained the student body. Seven convocations were presented, including a Thanksgiving convo, Christmas convo, and a student talent convo. Programs were planned by a Student Council committee headed by Mr. Beigh.

The Pep Sessions Committee worked to produce 20 pep sessions to keep students' spirit high from September football to March tournament time. The faculty-student committee, with Mr. Hilligoss as chairman, decorated the school for Red and Green Week.

20 clubs offer extracurricular opportunities

Anderson High School provided many opportunities for students to become involved outside of school. After school, 20 clubs met to plan and form activities which involved more than 900 students. Almost 900 students took advantage of the school's cafeteria while other students went home or ate in places provided uptown. The Student Resource Center, Library, and Research Center were available for students who wished to study in the hour provided for lunch. Some students who had free hours and did not wish to have a study hall became assistants to one of the teachers at AHS.

After school was dismissed, 25 buses arrived to take the students home. Other students drove to and from school and parked on a newly paved, fenced in, and lighted parking lot which offered safer conditions for student's parked cars.

Three Seniors attain coveted number 1 spot

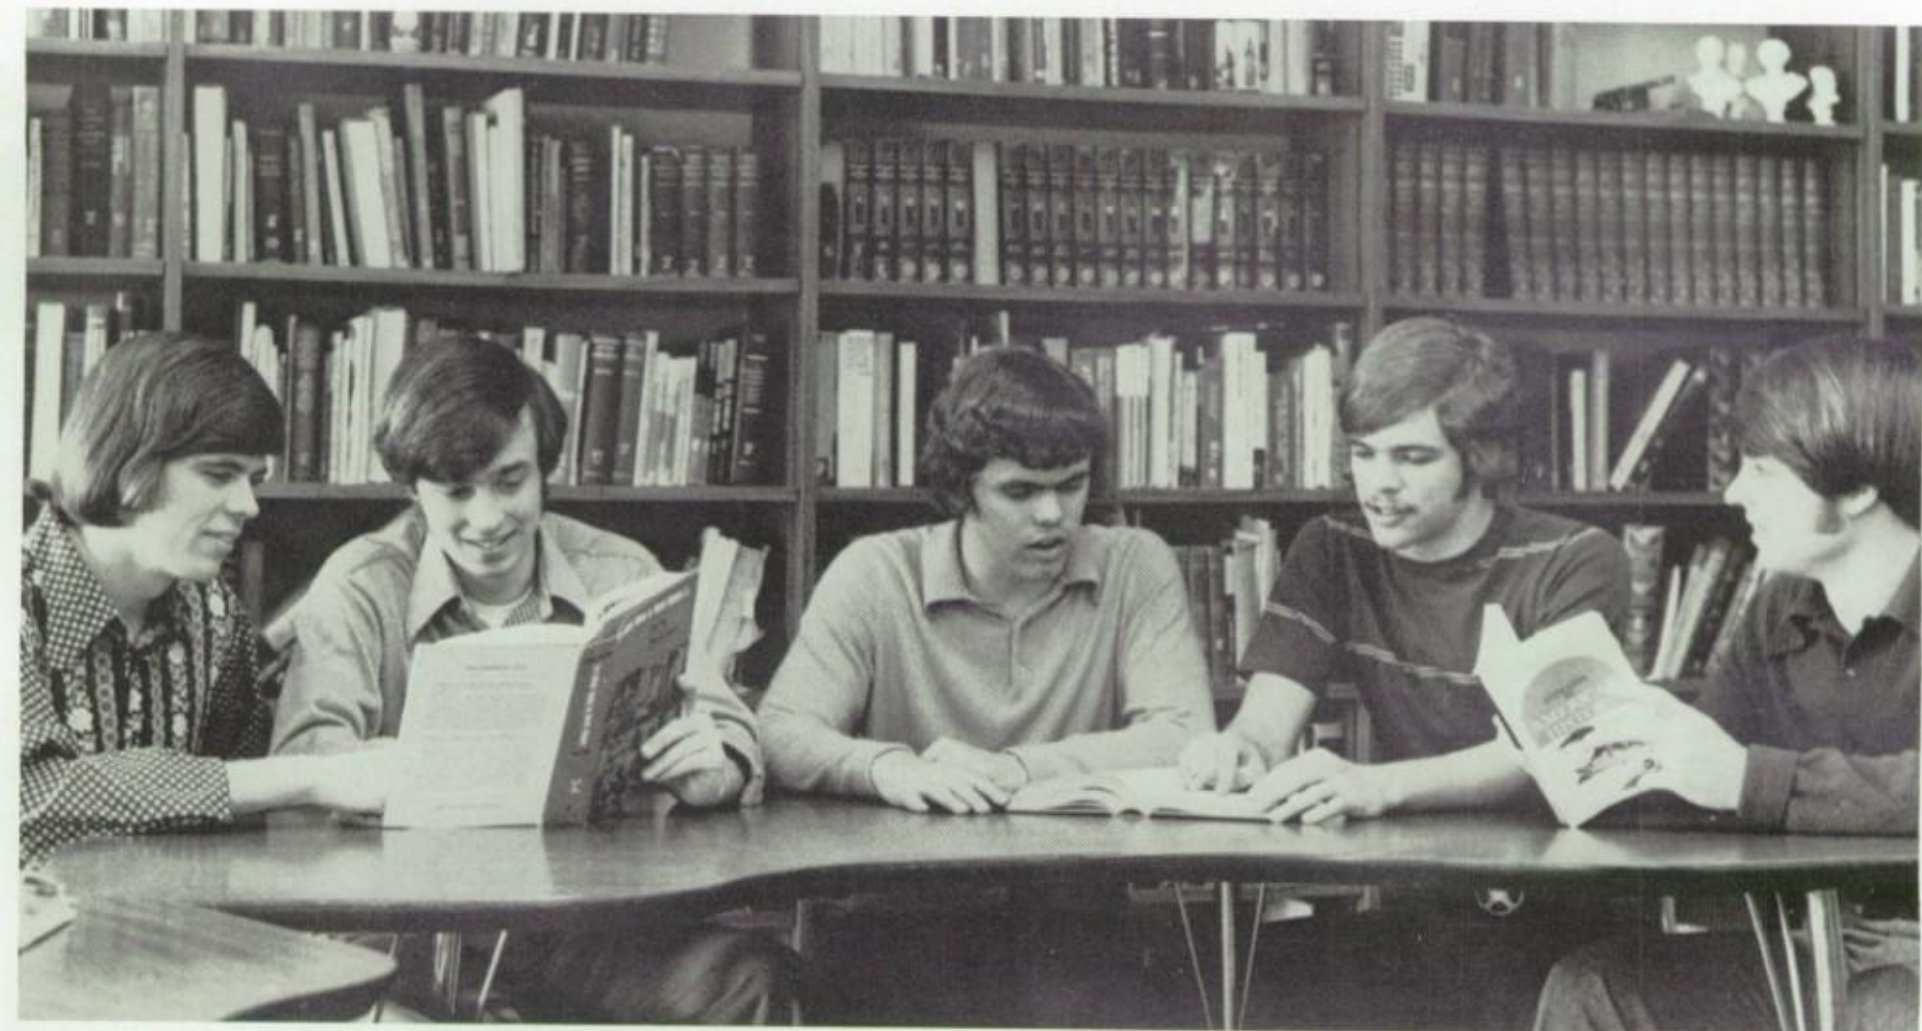

After competing against each other for three and one half years, the seniors had to wait another month for the outcome of the scholastic rank. The final decision placed three people at the number one spot.

Three girls and five boys were chosen by a faculty committee to represent AHS at Girls' and Boys' State. Week long activities included classes in government procedure, mock political conventions, campaigns, and election of state officials.

Sandy Long had the distinction of receiving the DAR award and the Betty Crocker award.

Student Council moves, changes time, sponsors

Moving over to the Reynold's Building provided Student Council with their own room, and they began with new sponsors, officers, members, and ideas. At a convocation, council members informed the student body of their ideas. A suggestion box, Contact Point, was located in the main hall to give all students an opportunity to voice their opinions in school affairs.

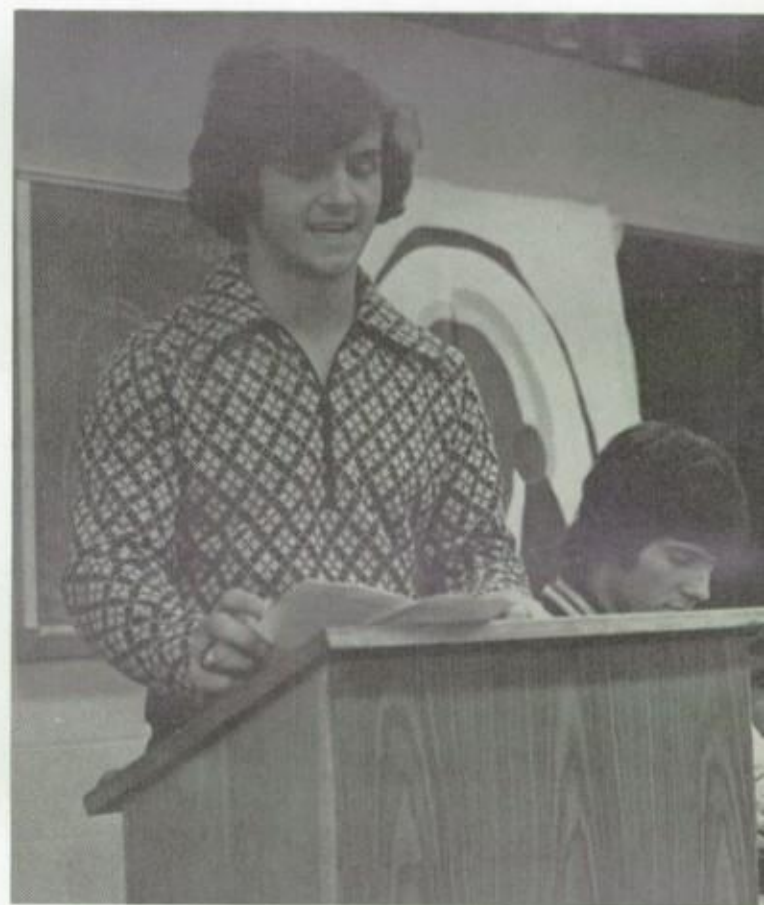

Taking an interest in athletics, the group decorated the goal posts before home football games and built a canvas arch through which the basketball team entered before games. "Limousine" played at the Fall Wind-Up Dance, "Stairway to Heaven." The Council earned money for charity through the Christmas Penny Postman, donating $25 to the Mental Health Association and $75 to the Salvation Army.

Sophomore representatives joined the Council second semester, helping to form the Kazoo Band for increasing spirit at the pep sessions, Valentine's Day Cupid Carrier, and the Twirp Dance.

42 CHORAL CLUB — CHORALLETES — SWING CHOIR

Madrigals sing for city groups

The Madrigal's 60 performances this year included programs for the Exchange Club, Lion's Club, Kiwanis, and Christmas at Monument Circle.

Students who passed an audition given by Mr. Seaver, director, composed Swing Choir, a 21 member group. Ladders, tambourines, and flashing lights helped to create special effects.

The 85 Choral Club students placed third at State Fair after spending a week at Choral Camp in August. Other performances included the Choral Classic on November 15, Christmas at Monument Circle, and special convos. The final production, the musical "West Side Story," played in the auditorium on March 23, 24, 30, and 31.

Choralettes represented the only all-girl choral group at Anderson. Candy sales produced the money needed to buy robes and pay for the buses used to take these groups to out-of-town performances.

Seaver stages Choral Classic, produces record

Choral Club, directed by Mr. Seaver, staged the musical "West Side Story" on the weekends of March 23, 24, 30 and 31. The production was based on the Broadway play directed by Jerome Robbins, with music by Leonard Bernstein. Mrs. Burcham and Mrs. Young assisted as director and choreographer.

The biannual Choral Classic was presented jointly by Choral Club and the Orchestra in the Park Place Church of God on Nov. 16. Choral Club sang "Peaceable Kingdom," by Randall Thompson, accompanied by Betsy Hirsch. Taped live, the entire program was made available to the students in the form of a stereo record.

Band captures sweepstakes at Southport

The Marching Indians were named champion sweepstakes winners at the Indiana School Music Association's competition at Southport High School. The show contained a variety of songs. The opening was the theme from the "Ringling Brother's Circus" and the concert number was "Impossible Dream." Pinwheels and company front maneuverings were performed as the band and Indianettes moved into crosses and formations. The Indianettes staged the twirling portion of the show, under choreographers Jane Cade and Mary Chandler.

The band ranked seventh at the 1972 State Fair contest. The numbers played were primarily western and the opening was "The William Tell Overture," where the band came charging across the track to execute a series of horn flashes, folk dances, and body movements.

Five concerts end band season

The production of a record including the 1972 State Fair show, 1973 State Fair show, 1972-73 Southport show, and football and basketball pregames ended the band's concert season. The band gave five concerts during the season, including the Pops concert March 13, which featured popular music, the spring concert April 12, the band convocation in February, and a contest at Muncie North Side High School. The band also appeared at King's Island.

The Stage Band finished second in the playing contest at Ben Davis in Indianapolis for the Indiana Music Educator's Association.

DECA, HERO make display for mall show

Distributive Education Clubs of America competed in the district contest where Gary Clark placed first in mathematics, Susan Alger won first in spelling and Kathy Coulliette took second place in job interview. Gary Clark was also the senior district vice-president. This position required that he preside over all district meetings and functions. The club met with an advisory board which was made up of business and school officials from the community. DECA members sold scented candles made by mentally retarded children.

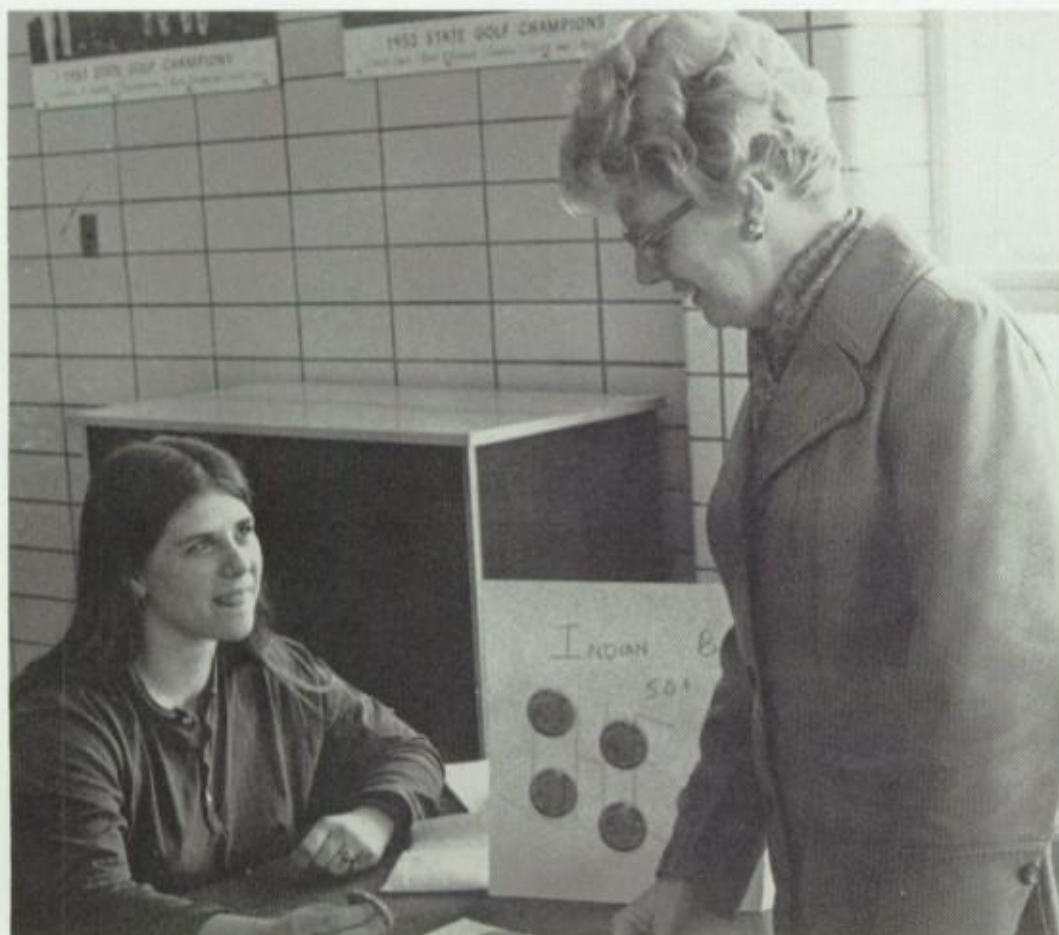

Home Economics Related Occupations functioned as a subdivision of Future Homemakers of America. President Joy Kenner was invited to attend a National Task Force meeting November 1-3 in Washington D.C. Joy was the only representative from the midwest attending the meeting. The officers attended a district leadership training meeting January 20.

Bill Sanders, Wes Bicha, Mr. Johnson, Jerry Throesch, Russell Hiles and Mike Donnelly, Industrial Arts Club members, work on one of many Wednesday afternoon projects.

Office Education Association Club sold calendar towels to earn money for its employer appreciation banquet in the spring. Combining with the other work clubs, the girls attended a skating party at May's Ice Rink. They also celebrated Halloween and Christmas at parties of their own. Participating in the regional, state and national office skill contest required much practice from them. In 1972, Wendy Nelson won first place in duplicating skills at the national contest.

Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America sold greenery during the Christmas holidays and candy to earn money. They collected food baskets for needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas. To elect officers for 1974, the club attended the State Convention. William Brown ranked as State Parliamentarian for 1973, and the club was elected best all around club in the state.

'Feet' illustrate sales campaign

Paper feet distributed throughout the school symbolized the sales theme "The Indian is Coming." The annual was distinguished from those of previous years by the use of reverse printing, modular layouts and spot color which carried out the theme of "INDIAN SUMMER."

Editor-in-chief Jean Macholtz, Managing Editor Diane Swinehart and Photographer Jack Renforth attended Indiana University for a two-week concentrated study of the yearbook. Each was enrolled in a special course which taught how each aspect of the annual can effectively be done, such as layouts, copy and photography.

A new $350 restored darkroom enabled INDIAN photographers Dave Webb and Jack Renforth to develop the annual staff's 1,400 pictures.

50 member X-Ray largest in years

The 1972-73 50 member X-RAY staff was the largest in 21 years. The majority of the staff were veterans of two and one half to three years. When a student had completed a semester class in newswriting, he was eligible for an X-RAY position.

Senior, Homecoming, Valentine, and Sectional issues helped comprise the twenty-eight issues of THE X-RAY produced this year. The staff sold 335 Christmas messages to produce the red and green Christmas issue.

The Vocational School did the entire printing of THE X-RAY with a staff led by Mr. Hays and Mr. McCoy. Type was justified and set by a computer run by student Faye Poe. After paste ups and editing, students printed the paper on offset presses.

Honor Society celebrates 35th

The first Honorary Society, formed in 1921 by Student Council to honor students with exceptional grades, graduated 15 students. One half of the student's grades had to average A and not more than one fourth B. Joining the National Honor Society in 1938 and allowing one fourth of the grades to average C, the society graduated 54 members. This year 81 honor students graduated with an accumulation average of at least 3.25 for five consecutive semesters.

The LITTLE CHIEF added a four page fold-out dedicated to seniors and their philosophies. Quotes and caricatures burst as sun rays out of an Indian head. Students submitted 570 poems, numerous fiction and non-fiction stories and art work, the best being selected by the staff. Color was also featured throughout the magazine, "Indian Outburst."

Quill and Scroll was an Honor Society for outstanding journalism students who rank in the upper third of their class.

Polus presides as National JCL president

Presiding as National Junior Classical League President, Phil Polus attended several meetings all over the United States. Debbie Friend served as the State Junior Classical League Corresponding Secretary. Selling initiate slaves to active masters, Latin Club began its activities for the year. They collected coffee for the Mental Health Association in New Castle. All members sold candy and Indian booster buttons to help finance the club.

Spanish Club began its activities with a combination initiation and Halloween party at Mounds Park. At their Christmas party, they made Christmas cards for people in the city's nursing homes. They helped organize the annual Language Club's Skating Party at May's Ice Rink February 13 and the Language Club Olympics in the spring. The club sold candy in order to earn money to follow the club's tradition of presenting a senior who plans to go on in Spanish with a scholarship.

Language clubs host Olympics

New members were initiated into French Club by crushing grapes for "wine." At their monthly meetings, the group viewed a movie about Paris, listened to Nancy Jackson's and Beth Shrenker's accounts of their trip to Europe, presented skits spoken in French for their own entertainment and discussed the business aspects of their club. At a Christmas party, they went carolling in French and feasted on French food.

German Club provided food baskets for two needy families at Thanksgiving. The members made the annual trip to the Heidelberg Inn in Huntington to eat an authentic German meal. With hopes of retaining top place in club sports, they began practicing for the Spring Language Club Olympics in February. Forming a band to play German songs, the club attended the State German Club Convention at Indiana University March 31.

Orchestra grows, accompanies Choral Classic

The AHS orchestra expanded to 65 members and the String Ensemble to 34 members this year. For the first time ever the orchestra participated with the Choral Club in the Choral Classic. Other activities included performing for West Side Story, a concert in April and graduation. String Ensemble performed for the Fine Arts Center in September and Christmas at City Hall.

Being the top ten per cent of all French classes and receiving A averages in all their French courses enabled 15 students to charter the first French Honor Society. The society hosted a Mardi Gras for French Club.

Spanish Honor Society members also ranked in the top ten per cent of all Spanish Classes.

'Once Upon A Mattress' gets standing ovation

Thespians deviated from their usual dramatic productions to perform the musical "Once Upon a Mattress." Sandy Long starred as Winnefred in the modern version of "The Princess and the Pea." The show was presented November 9, 10 and 11, receiving a standing ovation all three nights. Aiding the troupe in the production was the AHS orchestra, Pam Cronk, musical director; Tom Zeabart, costume designer; Don Davenport, set designer; and Randy Riggs, choreographer.

The Play Festival, presented February 17, consisted of four one-act plays. Directed by students, the plays were judged, and awards were given for the best actor, best actress and best play. The plays were "A Private Affair," "What's Zymurgy With You?" "Credo," and "Flora of the Flower Shop."

Members received points according to the number of hours they put into the production of plays. Ten points signified 100 hours of work and enabled a student to be a member of the National Thespian Society.

Seniors present 'As You Like It'

Speech Club members attended contests at Ball State and New Castle. They competed on original oratory and interpretation of drama, humor and poetry. Marti Dowman and Madeleine Doherty received an excellent rating in the drama contest at Ball State and were listed in the top ten group in their division.

Twenty-two students made up the Senior Dramatics class. They studied all aspects of play production and the history of drama, performed skits and presented dialogues. With this knowledge and experience, they performed the senior class play. The students themselves chose the play after a careful study and selection of possibilities. Mrs. Bridges, sponsor, selected the students from a group who tried out for the class by presenting a short pantomime and a two minute reading or oral interpretation.

FHA formed; FTA boosts tourney spirit

Future Secretaries of America was made up of 22 students from Madison Heights and 19 from Anderson. All members were juniors and seniors with business majors. Members of National Secretaries assisted the girls and attended their meetings at Decker Hall. They toured the Newspaper Office and hosted a picnic in the spring to interest sophomores in the club.

Future Teachers of America met monthly to hear teachers and other education officials speak on their profession. Dr. Peter Cacavas, a psychologist from Ball State, and the deans were among the guest speakers. Initiates were required to take an apple to all of their teachers.

Future Homemakers of America finished their first year as an organized club at AHS. They sold candles and jewelry to boost their treasury. A pizza party in the Home Economics dining room served as an opportunity for the members to get together.

They visited Dayton Air Museum November 13, and Weiss Airport. Mr. Mock and members flew an airplane over the Anderson area during an orientation flight. Four members worked on their pilot's license.

Universal Chess fever, ignited by Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky, hit AHS. Forty-five members participated in chess tournaments. Tab Postlethwait won the single elimination tournament, and Bill Callahan won the Round Robin tournament. The top four players formed a four-man team and attended the Indiana State High School Chess Tournament.

A Social Studies Club was also formed to plan and take trips to increase student's knowledge and interests in social studies.

Students dance at Fall Windup, Twirp, Prom

Anderson High School sponsored three dances — Fall Windup, Twirp, and Prom. The Fall Windup dance theme was "Stairway to Heaven" and Limousine provided the music. Twirp's "Living in the Past" took those attending on a journey into the past through a time tunnel. Color segments on the gym walls marked a progression into the past, and couples used a 1931 car as a backdrop for pictures. Girls asked boys to Twirp, and those girls, who had dates, chose a Twirp King to reign over the dance. The Juniors chose "Moonlight Garden" as the theme for their prom on May 25th which they honored the graduating seniors.

Sportsmanship

Signifies

Spraining ankles, every night practices,

100 push-ups, screaming crowds,

Getting an A-Club sweater,

Winning a first place ribbon,

Breaking school records,

Fighting for the N.C.C. championship,

Advancing from reserve to varsity,

Seeing my name in print,

Realizing I have accomplished,

And knowing the meaning of teamwork.

Spirited groups encourage Tribe

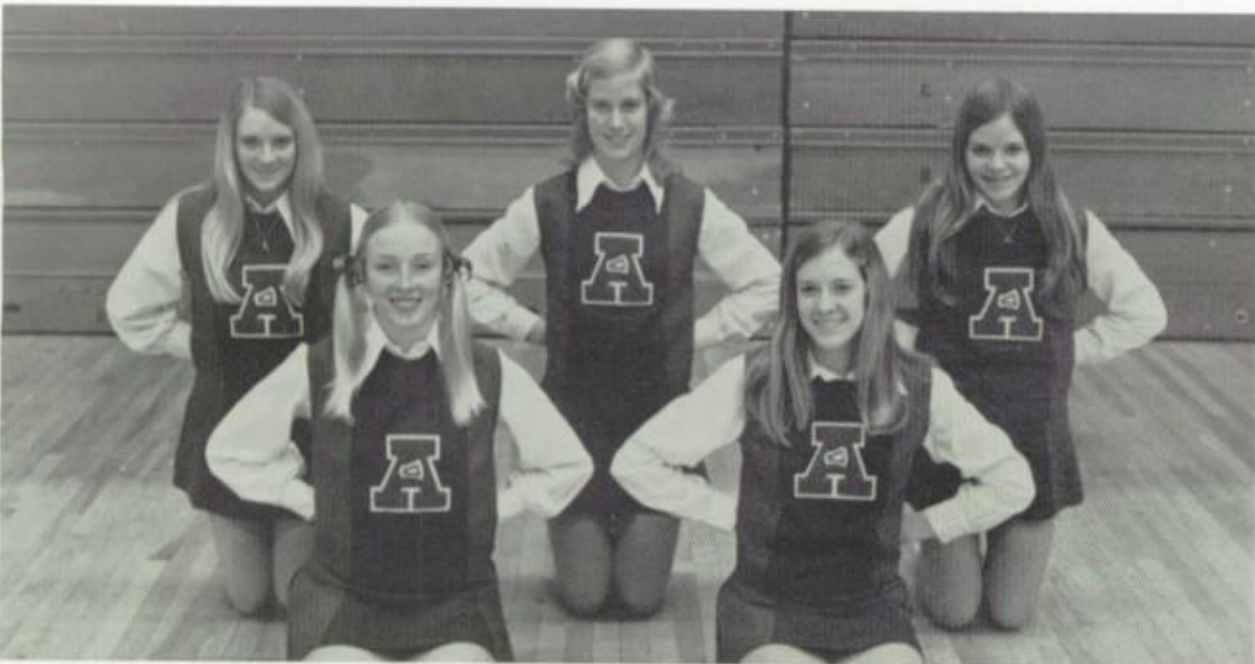

Waving their red and green scarves, Cheerblock encouraged the Indians to perform successfully and added color to the Anderson side of the gym. The girls and their sponsor, Mrs. Funk, sold candy in order to purchase next year's outfits. They also boosted team morale by attending away games as well as those in the Wigwam.

To refine their skills, the varsity cheerleaders attended a cheerleading clinic in Converse, Indiana.

Along with assisting the cheerleaders, A-Club passed out programs at basketball games and collected money for the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame.

Girls organize athletic teams for competition

While the men battled each other on the athletic fields, the squaws at AHS were organizing their own sports aggregations. For the first time at Anderson, girls competed in various sports with other schools.

Volleyball came to AHS with a feminine touch as the maidens competed in a nine game schedule. The girls split four outings with Madison Heights and won two against Highland.

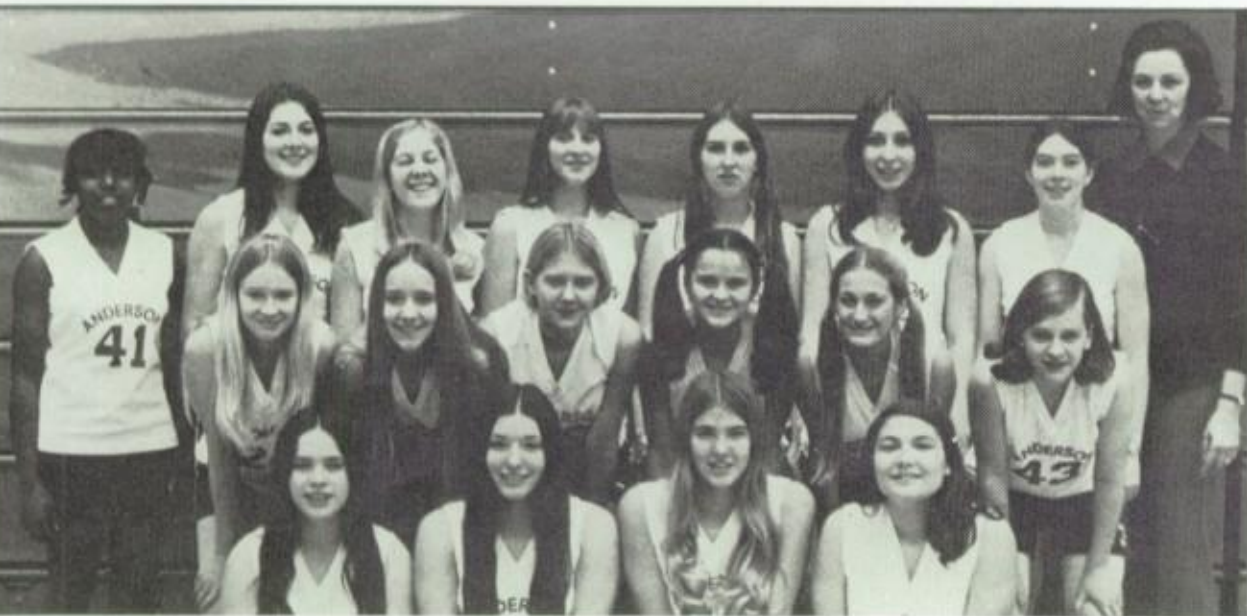

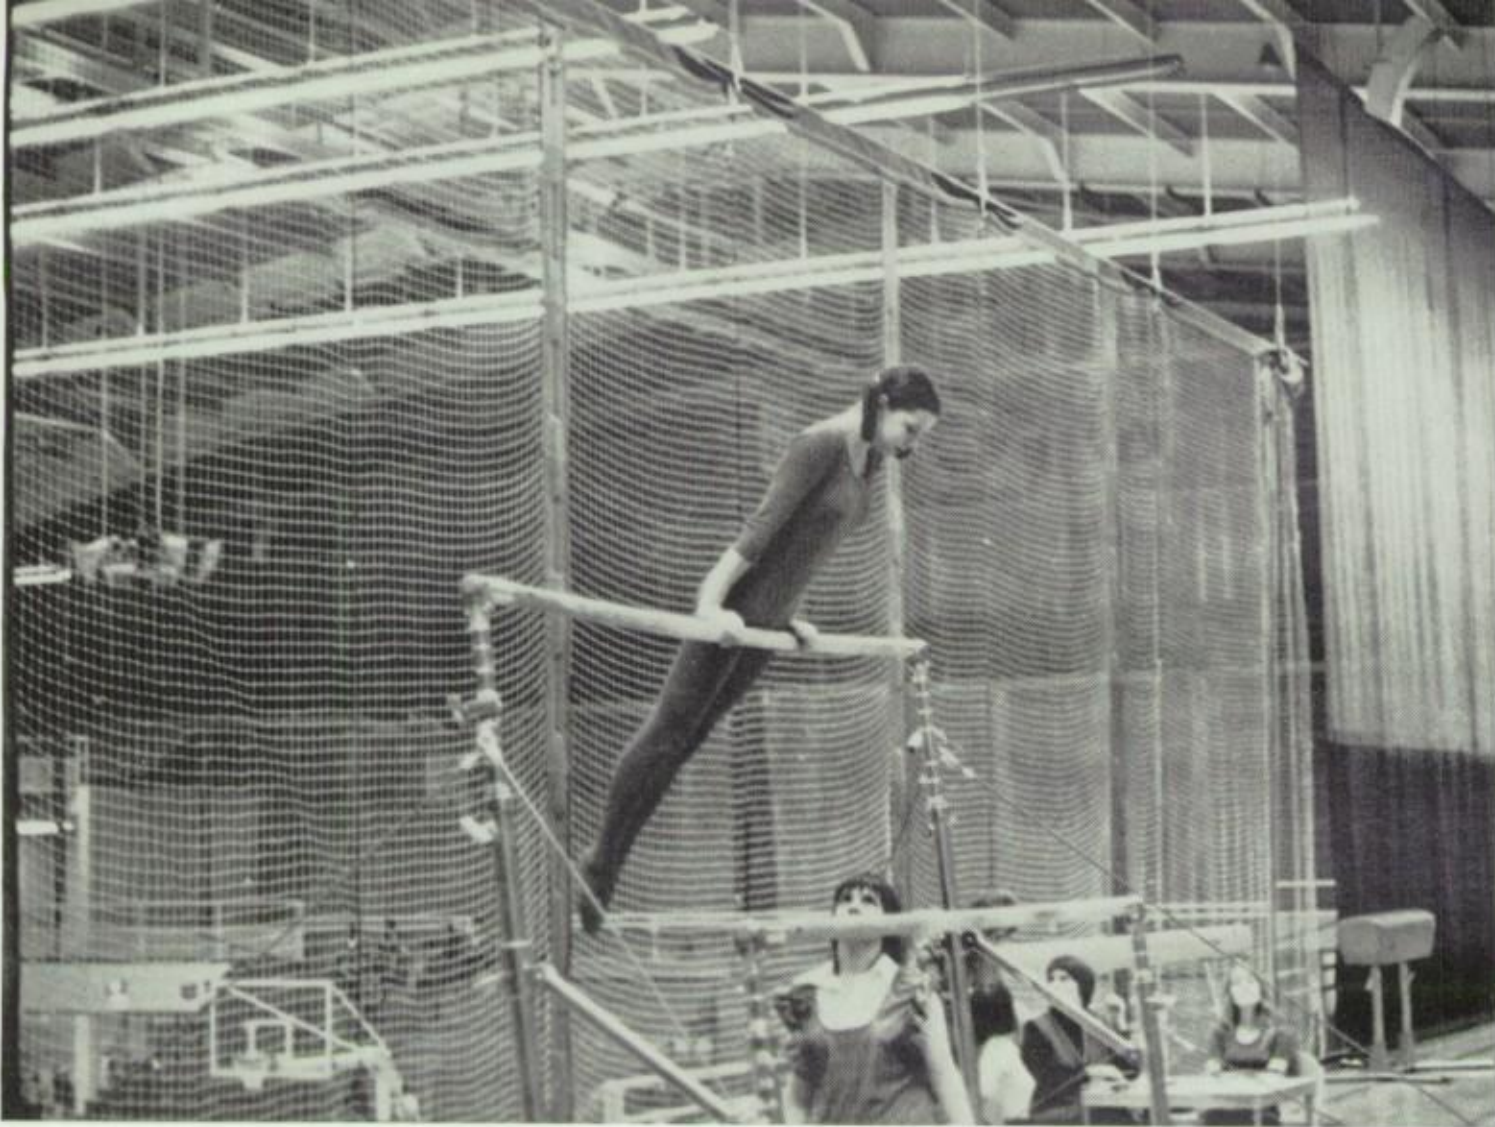

Mrs. Garrity and Miss Bundrick headed up a group of 25 girls to perform gymnastics events competitively among nearby schools. Susie Erskine and Beth Rector participated on the uneven parallel bars while Betsy Gephart and Cindy Jackson finished high in floor exercise and balance beam.

In its sixth year as an AHS organization, the 140 member GAA group was active in volleyball and track.

Aerial feats and upset victories amazed AHS fans as the football team suffered through an exciting but unpredictable season. Producing wins against highly rated NCC rivals Lafayette Jeff and Marion, the Tribe showed definite strength and ability despite losses to weaker teams.

The passing combination of MVP Greg Dunbar and John Short proved successful as they teamed up for 450 valuable yards throughout the season. Dunbar started his first varsity game against Muncie Central and passed for over 100 yards and three touchdowns. Head Coach Moore became aware of Dunbar's talents and started him for the remainder of the campaign. Allowing only three interceptions and throwing for nearly 800 yards and seven touchdowns, he became a premier quarterback in AHS football history. Short, being on the other end of Dunbar's tosses, was named to the All County team along with Mike Burkett, Barry Wilson, John Frössard, and defensive standout Mike McCord. Marty Frendt and Captain Gene Bales ended their high school football careers with three varsity letters, while versatile halfback Greg Stamper received the Phillips Family Award.

The new IHSA no-tie rule affected the Indians twice during their struggle for a winning season. Overtime cost the team a loss to New Castle, but proved favorable in their one point victory over Marion.

Indians prevail in autumn sports

Preparing for an added half mile to the course, the Anderson Cross Country team began practice in August and worked twice a day. Last year's Ray Fleenor Award winner, Dewayne Allen, led the team with seven first finishes and a school record time of 12:30. This year's Ray Fleenor Award recipient and three-year varsity man, Ted Persing, followed close behind Allen in meets throughout the season. Guiding his team to a second place NCC and sectional finish, Johnson was named the conference's Coach of the Year.

Taking part for the first time in a summer program at Mays Park, the tennis team improved in skill and conditioning for the upcoming season. Although junior dominated, the Tribe sported a respectable 8-5 record and second place sectional finish, losing to Richmond only in the final match. Anderson's most outstanding player, Steve Macholtz, was presented the Anderson Tennis Club Award.

Indians produce best record in 45 years, win NCC crown

Recovering from a losing season last year, the basketball team worked to become one of the state's powers. Coach Estes built a third-ranked team with a group of mostly juniors, who as sophomores, suffered 18 losses and only 3 wins.

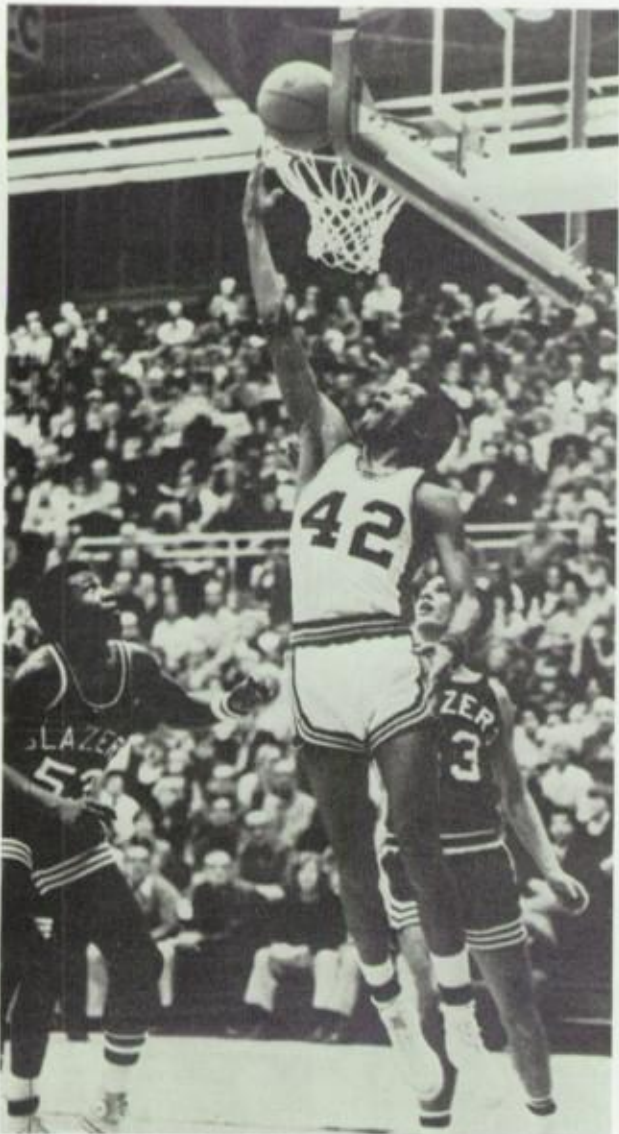

The Tribe began getting state recognition when they won six games in a row and scored a school record high of 111 points in their victory over Kokomo Haworth. Losing to East Chicago Washington in their first defeat of the year, the Indians regained their poise and beat top ranked New Castle in the Holiday Tourney. Outscoring Madison Heights 15-4 in the last five minutes of the fourth quarter gave Anderson its first victory over the Pirates in four years. Anderson again went over the century mark when the Tribe destroyed the Kokomo Wildcats by a 37-point margin. New Castle tested the Indians in an important conference game only to again falter and lose their chance for the NCC crown.

Roy Taylor's 30 points against Logansport and Harry Stamp's 26 against Carmel gave the Tribe victories in the closing games of the season. Tony Marshall pulled down many rebounds and averaged over 17 points a game to aid in the Indians' effort.

The conference title, still undecided in the last game of the regular season, ended in an AHS victory and conference championship.

Stamp, Taylor, and Marshall represented Anderson on the All-County team and together scored more than 1050 points for the best season record in 45 years.

South Bend upsets favored Tribe in state tourney at Bloomington

When Hoosier Hysteria came to Indiana, the Anderson Indians put on their war paint and began eliminating teams on the road to the state finals.

The Tribe refused to bow to Madison Heights, who for the last three years were winners of the Anderson Sectional. The Tribe scored a record high 113 points to erase the previous 111 set against Kokomo Hawthorn. Anderson had six players in double figures who helped in giving the Pirates the worst beating ever in Madison Heights history. The Tribe went on to defeat Alexandria in the final game to capture their first sectional crown since 1969.

Roy Taylor's 19 points and Tony Marshall's 18 gave Anderson a victory over Portland and the right to meet Carmel in the championship game of the regional. Despite the efforts of 6-11 Bill Lake, Carmel could not manage to beat the Indians as the Tribe had won their 23rd regional title and a trip to Fort Wayne.

All-State guard Bruce Grimm for the Plymouth Pilgrims scored 40 of 84 points, but he got little help from his teammates as the Tribe chalked up another victory. Taylor again led the team with 30 points. Marshall drilled in 23 while the AHS bench also did a superb job. Pat King hit four out of five shots and scored ten points. The devastating Indian front line combined for 56 points in the title clash with Fort Wayne Northrop, but the outstanding playmaking of the AHS guard quartet — Jeff Jenness, John Spikner, Tommie Nunn and Steve Douglass — also aided in the victory. The guards accounted for 18 assists led by Jenness with eight. The IU Assembly Hall was the next stop for Coach Estes and the Indians.

A goal-tending signal stopped the Indians cold in the last seconds of the game with South Bend Adams. Although they lost the state championship, the Anderson Indians came back from 18 defeats last year to become one of the glorious final four. The combined score of 194 was a record for the state finals. Taylor finished with the AHS single season scoring record; his 27 points gave him 582 and broke Rod Freeman's old mark of 565.

Wrestlers win second straight sectional crown

The varsity swimmers were not as impressive as in years past, but in their struggle to retain the excellence once known to AHS swimming, many moments of grandeur were evident.

Jeff Powell broke school records in the 100, 200, and 400-yard free-style events and represented Anderson at the state finals in the latter two. After a late start, Doug Jackson broke his own record in the 100-yard breaststroke and placed third in the state with a time of 1:03.549.

A 3-6-1 record gave the Indians the title of underdogs going into the wrestling sectional. Early in the year, the Tribe placed fourth in the Madison County Tourney; yet despite their losing season, Coach Kanable and his determined men won the sectional and defeated three teams who had outscored them in the County Tourney. John Neale, Bill Cunningham and Paul Schowe were individual winners for Anderson.

Randy Smith wins; Indians fourth in state

After eight meets without a loss, it looked as though the gymnastics team would be the only undefeated team at AHS. With only two seniors, Coach Smith and his gymnasts enjoyed the first winning season ever in AHS history.

Anderson had six men place higher than tenth in their individual events to give the Tribe a tie for fourth in the state meet.

Randy Smith became a state champion on the horizontal bar. Ed Wrin and Brian Witte also placed high in that event. Mike Smith placed seventh on the trampoline, while in free exercise Tom Miller was fifth, Rodney Silvers sixth, and Chris Lanane twelfth.

Juniors carry baseball team in building year

Coach Barnett started early conditioning in order to avenge a frustrating sectional defeat to Madison Heights last year. Although the Tribe crushed the Pirates 13-3 in regular season play, they could not manage to win the crucial game. Anderson closed out '72 season play by losing to Muncie South 2-0 and falling to Muncie Central 4-3. The last two games of the season were crushing defeats for the Indians' opponents as they shut-out Marion 10-0 and slaughtered Highland 11-4.

Dennis Sink hurled a two hit shut-out in the 1973 season opener against Indianapolis Cathedral and against Pendleton Heights he also gave up only two hits. Later, the Tribe shut out Carmel in the first game of a doubleheader but failed to win the second game as the Greyhounds came up with six runs in the first inning.

1972 champs defend golf title

In the 1972 season, the golfers proved to be the most successful team at AHS. Led by state champion Jim Cue, the Tribe captured its first state championship in 17 years. Anderson closed out last year's campaign by defeating Highland 297-331, Muncie Northside 301-339, Tipton 275-332, and Greenfield 284-309. The Indians then captured the NCC meet with a winning score of 311. After 17 straight wins, the Tribe had to settle for second place in the sectional but went on to win the state.

Steve Douglass was named Player of the Year and finished with an average of 74.5.

This year's track team standouts included Mike McCord who set a school record in the shot put, distance specialist Dewayne Allen, and excellent 880 and mile relay teams which turned in times of 1:33 and 3:33 respectively.

People

People
 Are so much a part of me
 That sometimes it is hard
 To separate myself from them.
 My geometry teacher, counselor,
 Principal, best friend,
 Choral director, arch-rival,
 The kid who used to sit across
 From me in history class,
 The nurse, librarian, dean
 The crowd I run around with,
 Class officers, class sponsors.
 Each of these
 Will provide
 Nostalgic thoughts
 In years to come.
 Each of these
 Are important to me
 Because they were a part of Indian Summer.

Indian Summer ends memorably

Reaching the final phase of their high school life, seniors found themselves involved in national politics for the first time with the new eighteen year old vote. College boards, job applications and draft lotteries took on new meaning for seniors planning for their futures.

The class, working with sponsors Mrs. McHenry and Mr. Zerkel, claimed top honors for its float "Hang 'Em High" in the Homecoming parade and sponsored the annual Homecoming Dance following the football game. All seniors actively took part in choosing white caps and gowns with tassels representing school colors for an early May 29 graduation. Traditional white was changed to mint green for the color of graduation announcements.

Senior week, with the Talent Show, Dinner Dance, Senior Brunch, Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises brought to a close a memorable life at AHS and an end to Indian Summer.

"What next?! We were always jumping from one thing to another. As soon as I finished one job, there was always someone who needed help. I was decorating the gym for the prom; what an experience that was! Everyday for about two weeks, I came home covered with black paint and wondering if the image of 'Neptune's Kingdom' would ever come. I continued to work and with each day the props became more alive. I remember how long it took and how much work was put into that Sunken Ship. Would the ship's hull ever be ready for the Grand March?"

Soon the time was up. I don't think I'll ever forget the feeling I had when I first entered the gym that night. I could really appreciate all the work everyone had put into it. A room full of cardboard, nails, paints, brushes, newspapers, and weary, messy kids had turned into a true underwater image of 'Neptune's Kingdom.' "

"It was scary at first. There I was in my first Thespian play, and I wished I had never tried out. I knew that everyone would be looking at me instead of at the other actors. I was really positive that I'd lost my voice or forgotten my lines. Awaiting my cue, I noticed the many names and initials carved into the walls backstage. It was reassuring to realize that others had gone through the same thing and left this record of experience. Slowly, carefully, I took a piece of metal and began to scratch my name on the wall. Suddenly, everyone was staring at me whispering frantically! I missed my cue! I'm on!"

"The three o'clock bell. After that miraculous sound is heard ringing throughout the school, a sense of exhilaration mixed with letdown is felt. The quick gathering of books, the rush to the door, the traffic jams to lockers, and the stampede of 2000 students to the buses or cars to home in only five minutes is truly remarkable. Everyone hurries to get home and after five minutes these halls are one of the loneliest spots in the world. Where fifty kids stood five minutes ago talking about school, their girlfriends, or homework, there is now no one but me to walk those spooky halls."

"I have had many fun, not-so-fun, and hilarious experiences throughout my high school career. Since I really have lots of pep and school spirit, I always went wild at pep sessions, basketball games, and football games. At the Madison Heights-Anderson football game this year, I really got carried away. Everyone there from AHS was screaming and cheering so enthusiastically, that I got over-excited, and, jumping up and down on the bleacher where I had been sitting, I fell down between the seat and the floor, onto the muddy ground. I looked like I was really backing our team because when I got up from the ground, I was as wet and muddy as our football players on the field!"

— Debbie Shively

"The most outstanding event in my career at Anderson has to be the confusion and misery I suffered as a sophomore. As a class, we were attacked on all sides by inconsiderate underclassmen and teachers who thought the only good students were those who studied until they were exhausted. By the end of the year, our class had almost been exterminated, and today it still suffers from those effects. But those are now the good old days, and I am sure that I will not forget them. (How could I?)"

— Jim Bennett

The final realization that their Indian Summer is over comes for the many seniors during the annual AHS graduation.

'Middlemen' look toward future; host May Prom

The 639 students who advanced to "Middlemen" on the AHS ladder began to acquire a sense of belonging to the student body.

In October juniors were required to take the Iowa test measuring educational development. Serious thought was given to college choices and college admittance tests were offered, including the April SAT.

Money to sponsor Prom in May was the goal of juniors operating the basketball coat check with the help of class sponsors Mrs. Bernard and Mr. Sparks. Additional aid from the sectional concession stand allowed juniors to create Prom, "Moonlight Gardens."

Tomahawk won by strong unity

"Could you direct me to the elevator?" was a typical question heard on the first day of school as AHS was confronted with 719 sophomores roaming its halls in search of books, friends, and classes in a seemingly endless maze of rooms. As experience was gained, however, they proved a worthy addition to the student body as they captured the tomahawk during homecoming festivities.

Eager to thrust their way into events, 25 newly elected homeroom officers selected class rings. In November, 25 student council representatives were chosen which gave sophs a more dominant voice in school affairs.

AHS acquires assistant deans

Because of the racial problems at Madison Heights this year, the black community as well as teachers and administrators at both schools requested that the school board discuss the issue of assistant deans. Mrs. Winford and Mr. Williams were hired to fill the positions of assistant deans at AHS.

Mrs. Winford, who came to Anderson High in December, stated, "I feel my being here may open some new avenues to communication." Mr. Williams commented, "Everyone that I have come in contact with has cooperated and accepted me." Both assistant deans dealt with white as well as black students and shared responsibilities with the deans.

On September 1, 1972, the Senate Enrolled Act 162, passed by the Indiana General Assembly, went into effect. The law stated that any student that is expelled or excluded for more than five days has a right to a hearing.

NCA evaluates Anderson High

Anderson High School faculty members prepared for the North Central Evaluation in December when a team of nineteen educators evaluated every aspect of the school.

Teachers expanded their academic interests outside of school. Mrs. Bridges' trip to the Royal Shakespeare Festival in Ontario, Canada gave her ideas for plays. Mr. Nicholson spent five days in Haiti during November as an educational consultant evaluating the problems of the College of St. Pierre and other schools.

Three teachers used music as an avocation. Mr. Rauner tuned pianos and played jazz music by ear. Mr. Pursley, who taught himself to play, had 27 organ and piano students. Mr. Cox had several original songs published and made a record of piano and organ music.

Right: Mrs. Bridges and Mr. Houser discuss the music for "Once Upon A Mattress" during a break in play practice. Below right: Mrs. Austin talks to an award recipient. Below: The school secretaries, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Abel, (seated) Mrs. Goff, Mrs. Knisley and Mrs. Wallace, discuss their work for the upcoming week.

Anderson is my city
 I reflect on its heritage
 I find that 150 years means
 The tearing down of a courthouse,
 The building of a new one,
 New gaslights on Eighth Street,
 The City building,
 Red bud trees,
 A sesquicentennial celebration,
 East Side Junior High,
 The Eisenhower Bridge,
 Picnics at Mounds Park, and
 Anderson High School.
 Even in my short lifetime,
 I have seen changes inconceivable
 150 years ago.
 All of these are a part
 Of Anderson,
 Which, in turn, makes them
 A part of me.

Berry donates property for county seat

In 1820 when the first settlers began moving into Madison County, they found themselves entering an unbroken wilderness inhabited by the Delaware Indians. As the time came for the departure of the Indians, due to the St. Mary's Treaty of 1819, quite a number of men came into the county.

Amasa Makepeace from Massachusetts, settled in present-day Chesterfield where he constructed several mills. John Berry came with his family from Clark County and established his domicile where the city of Anderson now stands. When the county was organized, Berry donated sixty acres of his land for county seat purposes.

Madison County was formally organized on Monday, November 10, 1823, by John Roberts, Sheriff of Marion County, appointed by the Legislature. Organization was effected at the house of William McCartney in Pendleton. Several proposed sites for the county seat were visited and examined, but a group of commissioners decided to accept the proposition of John Berry on May 21, 1827.

Central canal brings boom to city growth

Anderson's first growth boom came about with the beginning of construction on the "Central Canal" in 1836. The canal, which was to run through Madison County, had the main objective of making transportation to market for farmers cheaper and giving them a better chance to compete with the Ohio market prices.

Unfortunately, riots between the Irish Catholics and Orangemen that worked on the canal, the revulsion of public sentiment, and the poor financial situation of the state because of the Panic of 1837 caused the canal construction to cease.

The "Central Canal" and Anderson's dreams of prosperity came to a screeching halt.

School system dates to 1849

Madison County established its first school system in 1849. County seminaries were established around the state at public expense. Not until twenty years later did such an institution become established in Madison County.

$5,000.00 was paid to Andrew Jackson and Robert Williams for the land on the Northeast corner of Main and Twelfth Streets where the first school was erected. The two-story brick building served as the county seminary until 1865 when fire destroyed the structure.

Another building was erected, but torn down in 1888 when the Main Street School was built.

Many of the teachers in these schools were residents of the area and not qualified teachers. O. P. Stone was the first professional teacher. He taught from 1846 until 1853 at the seminary.

Citizens gather to look over new 'Iron-horse'

Making its way into Anderson for the first time, the Indianapolis Bellefontaine Railroad train arrived on July 4, 1851, bringing about Anderson's second boom. Andersonians garnished their town in red, white, and blue, and set up accommodations for those who had traveled miles to catch a glimpse of the iron-horse.

From Anderson, the track extended into Cleveland, Ohio, passing into the hands of the Big Four Railway. In the second line, Cincinnati and Chicago Air Line passed through Madison County.

For 23 years Anderson tried unsuccessfully to construct a third railway through Anderson. However, it was not until 1892 that a group of manufacturers and financiers built the Anderson Belt Railway.

Canal, railroad influence growth

After two attempts of incorporating Anderson failed, Anderson finally became incorporated August 25, 1865.

Population expanded rapidly as the prospects of a canal passing through increased. Anderson became incorporated on January 21, 1839, one month before news that construction on the canal was to cease. Population decreased to 350 and Anderson remained a village for fifteen years.

Again on June 23, 1853, the residents of Anderson voted to incorporate the town. Due to the Indianapolis Bellefontaine Railroad, a need for town government became apparent as business activity increased. Anderson's town government lasted for twelve years.

Finally, on August 25, 1865 a permanent city government was adopted by an overwhelming majority, 207 to 10 in favor of incorporating Anderson.

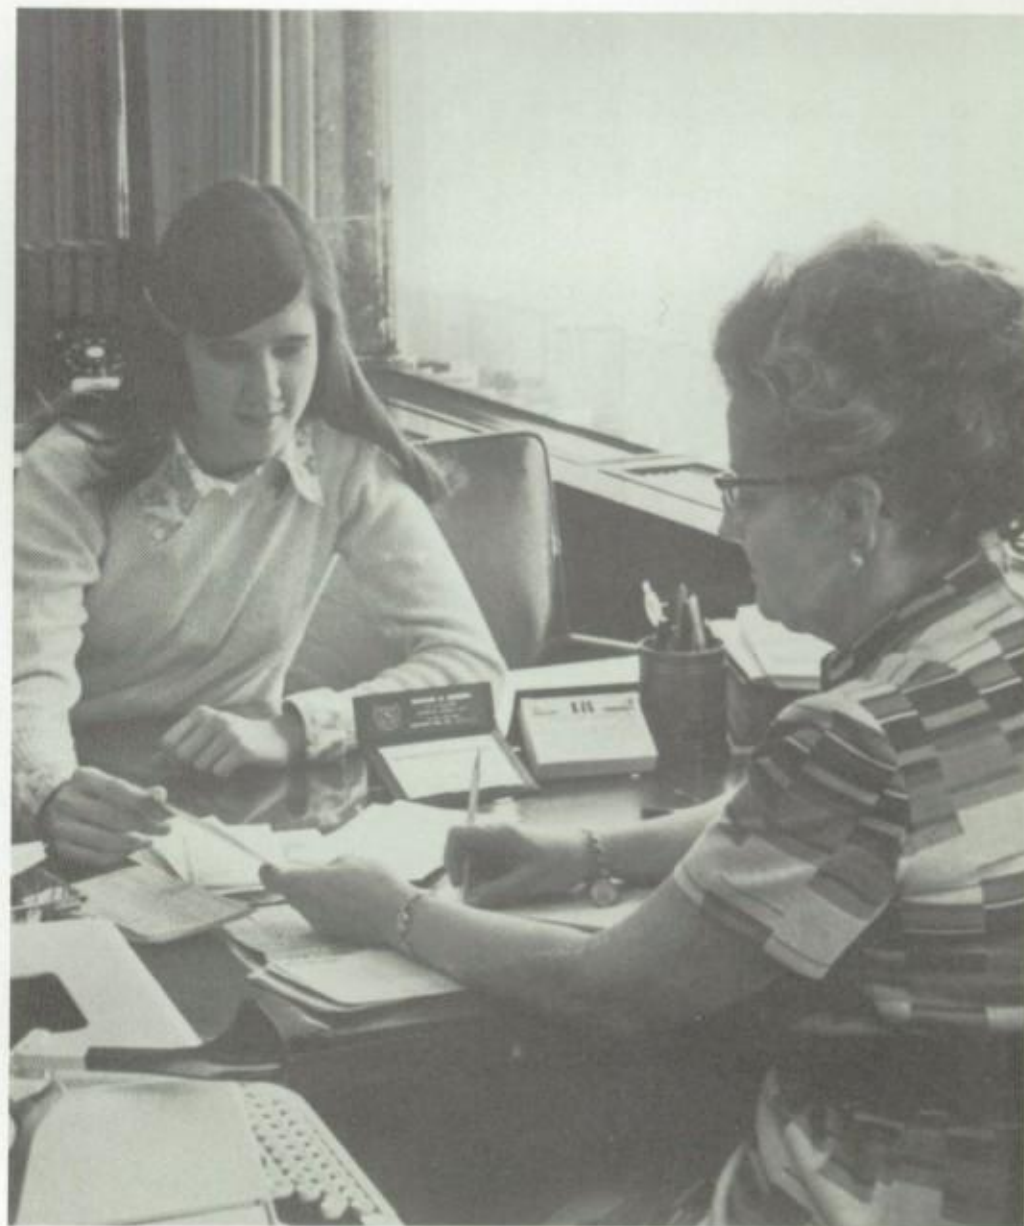

First city officers elected were: Mayor, Robert N. Williams; Clerk, C. O. Thompson; and Treasurer, Joseph Fulton.

AHS graduates all-woman class

Although the county school system was established during the 1840's, not until 1876 was the city of Anderson presented with its first high school graduating class.

Anderson High School's first class graduated in the Union Hall on the corner of Eighth and Main Streets, on Thursday, May 23, 1876. The four seniors chose "Eximus Abis Secuturis" — We go forth; others will follow — as the class motto.

Jesse F. Meyers recited the valedictory and the school statistics were read by the treasurer of the school board, Edgar Henderson. Members of the all-women class were Miss Cora E. Bain, Miss Mary I. Grimes, Mrs. Sarah L. Cowgillnee Harriman, and Mrs. Jessie F. Croan nee Meyers.

A-town named 'Queen City'

With the discovery of natural gas in March of 1887, Anderson became the "Queen City of the Gas Belt," stretching into Ohio and Pennsylvania. Numerous companies and businesses sprang up overnight in the sleepy little farming community to capitalize on Anderson's third Boom.

Pipes were erected in yards, on street corners, along highways and in barnyards. Wells burned 24 hours a day, producing unforgettable sights visible for miles.

For nearly 23 years the abundant supply of gas provided a source of energy that has never again been equaled in Anderson.

Electric plant, pride of city, creates awe

Of the numerous industries, buildings and people which aided in the growth of Anderson's population, none drew as much attention or amazement from outside businessmen as did the municipal owned electric plant.

Isaac D. Bosworth first founded the Electric Plant in 1885. Then, in 1892, Charles L. Henry purchased the plant and supplied light to the city until 1896 when he offered to sell the plant to the city, accepting notes for $48,000.00 in payment.

Instead of being owned and operated by a private enterprise, Anderson's Electric Plant was owned and operated by the city of Anderson. Because of this, electric rates were lower than those paid by residents of 99 percent of all other Indiana cities and towns.

The majority of homes and those two to three miles outside of the city were dependent upon the plant for light for every use and emergency.

In 1903 notes to the amount of $60,000.00 were issued for extensions of buildings. Valued at several million dollars, Anderson's Electric Plant was the pride of the city.

Governor Durbin ignites politics

Andersonians saw the beginnings of an important political career in the 1880's when Winfield T. Durbin moved to the city from Lawrenceburg.

Serving as an Indiana delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1893, and 1896, Durbin also presided as Republican National Committeeman.

In 1901 Durbin captured the governor's seat. A strong advocate of the state highway system, he initiated several improvement programs during his term of office. Durbin also took a steadfast stand on any measure aiding in betterment of Indiana. His business administration was one of soundness, reflecting the conservative elements of his party.

Defeated for a second term in 1912, Winfield Durbin retired to Anderson, where he died at the age of 81 in 1928.

Six automobile plants operate during 1910's

Automobile industries invaded Anderson between 1900 and 1920 in overwhelming numbers. In 1909 six different automobile plants were manufacturing the horseless buggy.

Nyberg Automobile Works, located on West First, originally the Rider-Lewis auto company, won nation-wide recognition for the runabouts, heavy trucks and touring cars they produced. The Nyberg Works produced 15,000 wire wheels per day. John Lambert possibly started the first gasoline engine and started an auto industry in Anderson in 1894.

Throughout those twenty years the automobile industries were one of Anderson's primary concerns.

Interurban runs track to Marion

First realization of plans for a road from Alexandria to Anderson belonged to Charles L. Henry. His plan was to construct a road upon which electric cars would transport passengers. Dreams became reality on September 3, 1897 when the Union Traction Company was incorporated.

January 1, 1898 marked the first interurban run from Anderson to Alexandria. And by the beginning of 1899 the road had extended to Summitville, making a trackage of 17 miles and on to Marion, completing a total 34 miles.

Anderson merchants and businessmen reached a heyday in the 1920's. General offices and shops in downtown Anderson prospered immensely due to the persons coming into Anderson on the Interurban System.

Due to the many wrecks of the electric cars the last run of the interurban took place January 18, 1941.

Indians '35, '37 state champs

The 30's brought with them a feeling of success for the Anderson High School Indians.

A team of strong, able-bodied players practiced long and hard to become state basketball champions in the year of 1935.

Again in 1937, with a few survivors from the last championship, the Indians took top honors on the state basketball tourney.

It was not only a time of triumph for AHS students, but it also meant a week's vacation from school activities.

This elation of success was again felt when Coach Charles Cummings shaped up his team of Indians for a 1946 state championship.

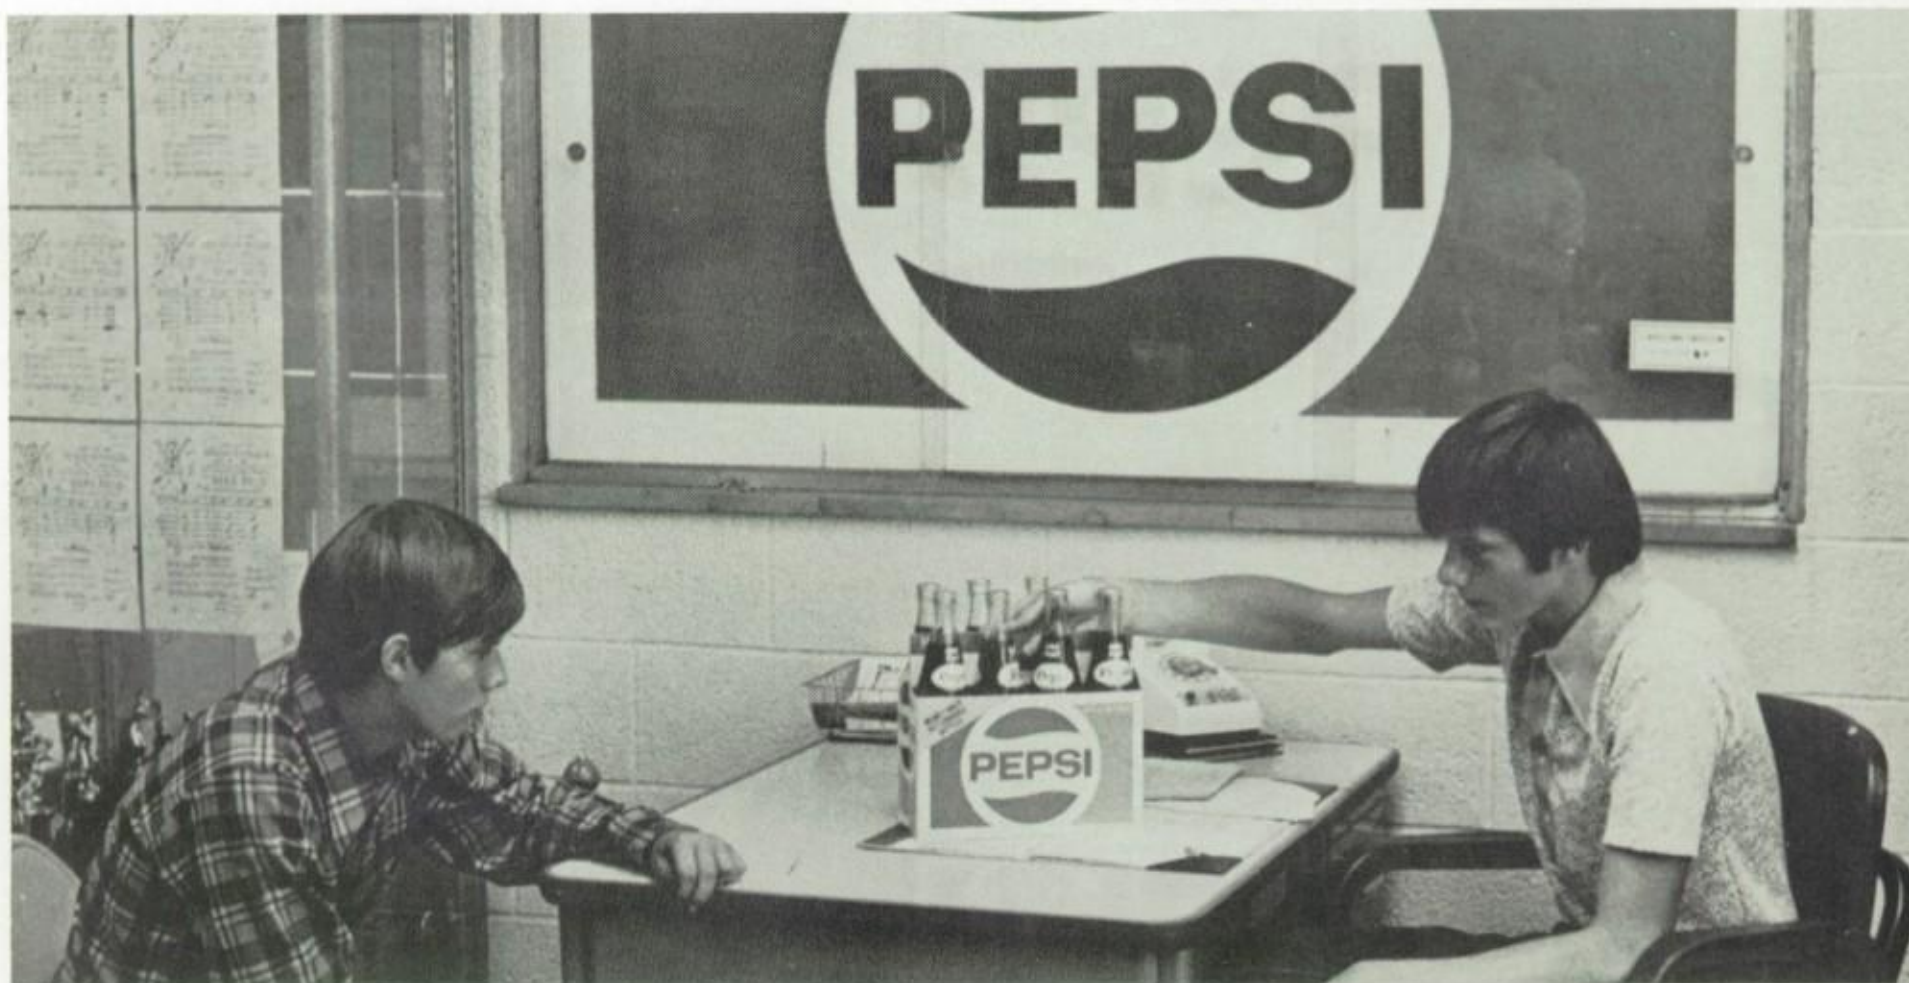

World War II victory brings new prosperity

With the bombing of Pearl Harbor, the United States plunged into World War II. And with this declaration the Anderson Boom burst open.

Anderson industries swung into full scale wartime production. Employment doubled in the city as the home front joined in the massive war effort. Plants converted peacetime machinery into useful tools for war-time output.

Victory in World War II, August 15, 1945, set the stage for the greatest economic resurgence in the country's history. Defense plants reconverted from manufacturing armaments and war goods to products of a demanding peacetime public. Andersonians had gone so long without so much they were willing to pay any price for the automobiles, washing machines and the all new television set.

Community aids social agencies

The late 1950's and early 1960's witnessed the birth of an organization whose primary concern was social awareness. The United Fund started in 1959, and kicked off its first fund raising drive in September of 1960.

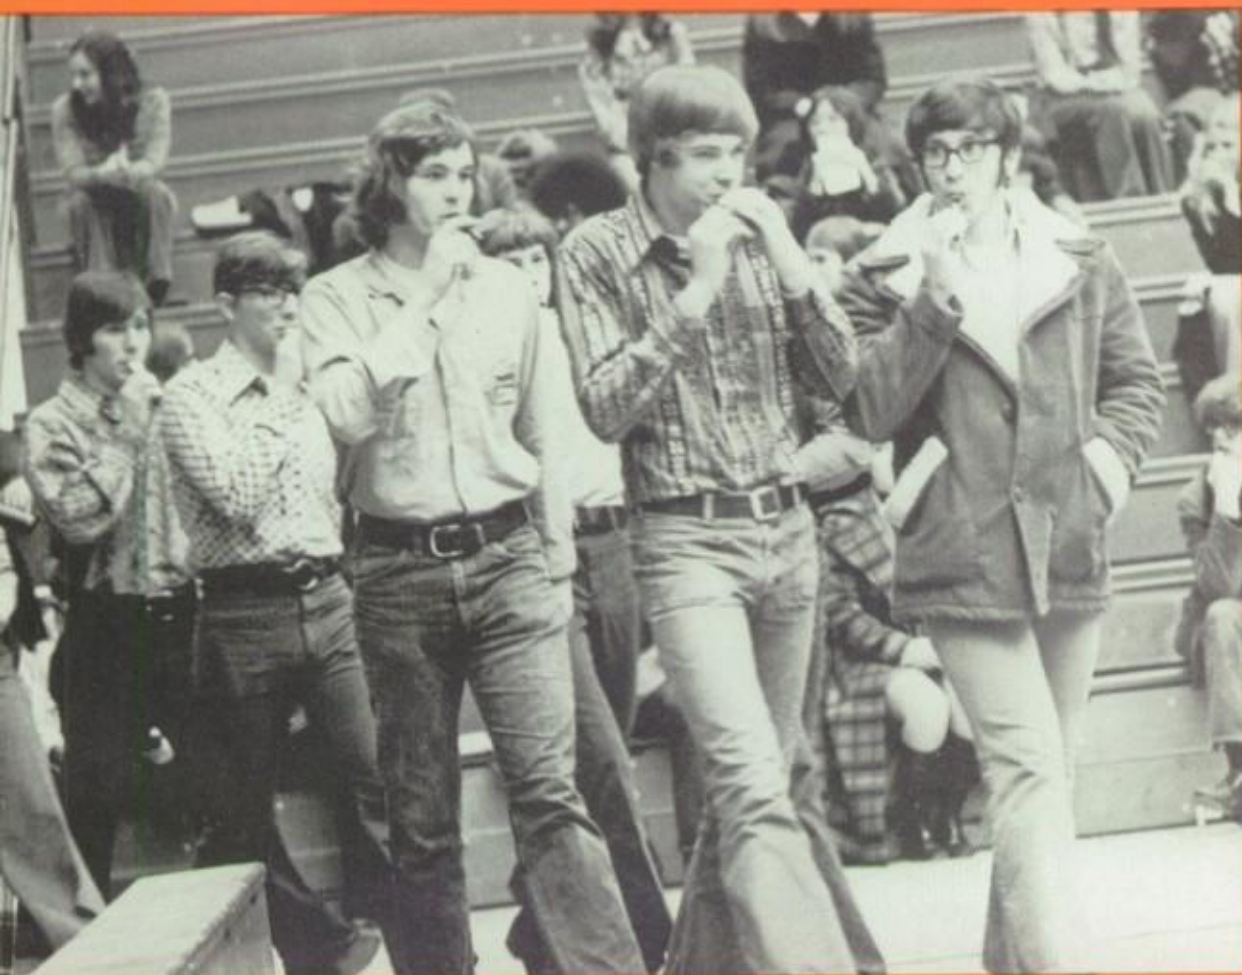

Money received from employees of stores, businesses, and corporations was dispersed among twenty-seven human service agencies located throughout Madison County. Nearly three-quarters of a million dollars is raised annually by the United Fund of Madison County.

As the 1960's ended volunteer effort increasingly was turned toward the minority groups of the community as the city geared up for equal opportunity in jobs, housing, and education.

Indian spirit
I am a part of its Tradition.
It involves
Making signs for pep sessions,
Mr. Red and Miss Green,
The Indian war dance,
Decorating homerooms
And halls for Red and Green Week,
Cheerblock as A-Club,
A-Club as Indianettes,
Coach Estes,
"Two bits, four bits,"
"Sweet Georgia Brown,"
Bumper stickers and beanies,
And the N.C.C. champs.
All of these will bring back
Memories that will remind me of Anderson High School and Indian Summer.

High school basketball tourneys —
Or in other words,
Hoosier hysteria —
Make me think of
Beating Madison Heights by 57 points
Breaking our overall point record,
Cutting down the sectional nets,
Putting the trophy back together,
Getting fired up for the regional,
Pushing ahead of Portland and Carme
Taking down the regional nets,
Anticipating a trip to Ft. Wayne,
Finally being one of the "Final Four",
And most of all,
Knowing what it is like
To be a winner.
Competing and winning will always
Bring to mind high school tourneys
And Indian Summer.

The United States
Means
Progress.
The Viet Nam cease fire,
The return of the P.O.W.s,
The eighteen-year-old's
First presidential election —
All are what is 1973.
There were also times of trouble,
Time of grief.
The deaths of Johnson and Truman,
The Olympic games,
Those soldiers who didn't make it home.
But, still, this country
Has so much to offer,
That it is hard to imagine
Life elsewhere.
This is the place where
My future lies
When I am only an outsider
Of Indian Summer.

And so, as I near
The close of my high school days,
I visualize
Just what is ahead of me,
And I find that this is
A small portion of my life,
That my INDIAN SUMMER is Only the beginning.

To a real sweet guy in my home room,
Stay as sweet as you are and you'll make it.

To the biggest
PO — I know and probably ever will know.
I wish you luck
in everything you
try (or attempt) to do.
(the two blanks stand for OK of course!)
Good luck
Tim

So a great guy who showed me a lot of "good clean
fun" I was missing.
Have a ball this summer!
